ACHS' top male, female students share deep investment in total experience; both plan to study pre-med

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Two outstanding students at Antioch Community High School illustrate the many ways to excel on the way to pre-medical programs in college.

Emerging from Honors Night with Outstanding Senior recognition were Abigail Clark, of Antioch, and Timothy Chilcote, of Lake Villa.

Both students illustrate the many ways that a person can put together a high school career that is richly rewarding. Both students emphasized the importance of community support for the success of their educational experience.

Clark will attend Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa. "I'll double major in computer science and pre-med," she said. Her interests are with natural healing and chiropractic areas of medicine.

"I plan to go to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio," Chilcote said. "It will be a pre-med program for four years." His interests are with orthopedics.

Both Clark and Chilcote had strong interests with extra-curricular programs and sports. For them, school was a day-long event that merged classroom work, sports, and volunteer work into a very positive experience. They each had multiple memories of good events at the school.

"I followed the science track and computers," said Clark of her academic choices.

Her favorite subject was biology, but she also felt very positive about her experiences with school computers.

"They've done a really good job teaching them," she said.

For Tim Chilcote, his academics also were with the sciences, biology and chemistry. In terms of school technology programs, he is very confident that he is well prepared for college. "It was very impressive," he said of the computer opportunities.

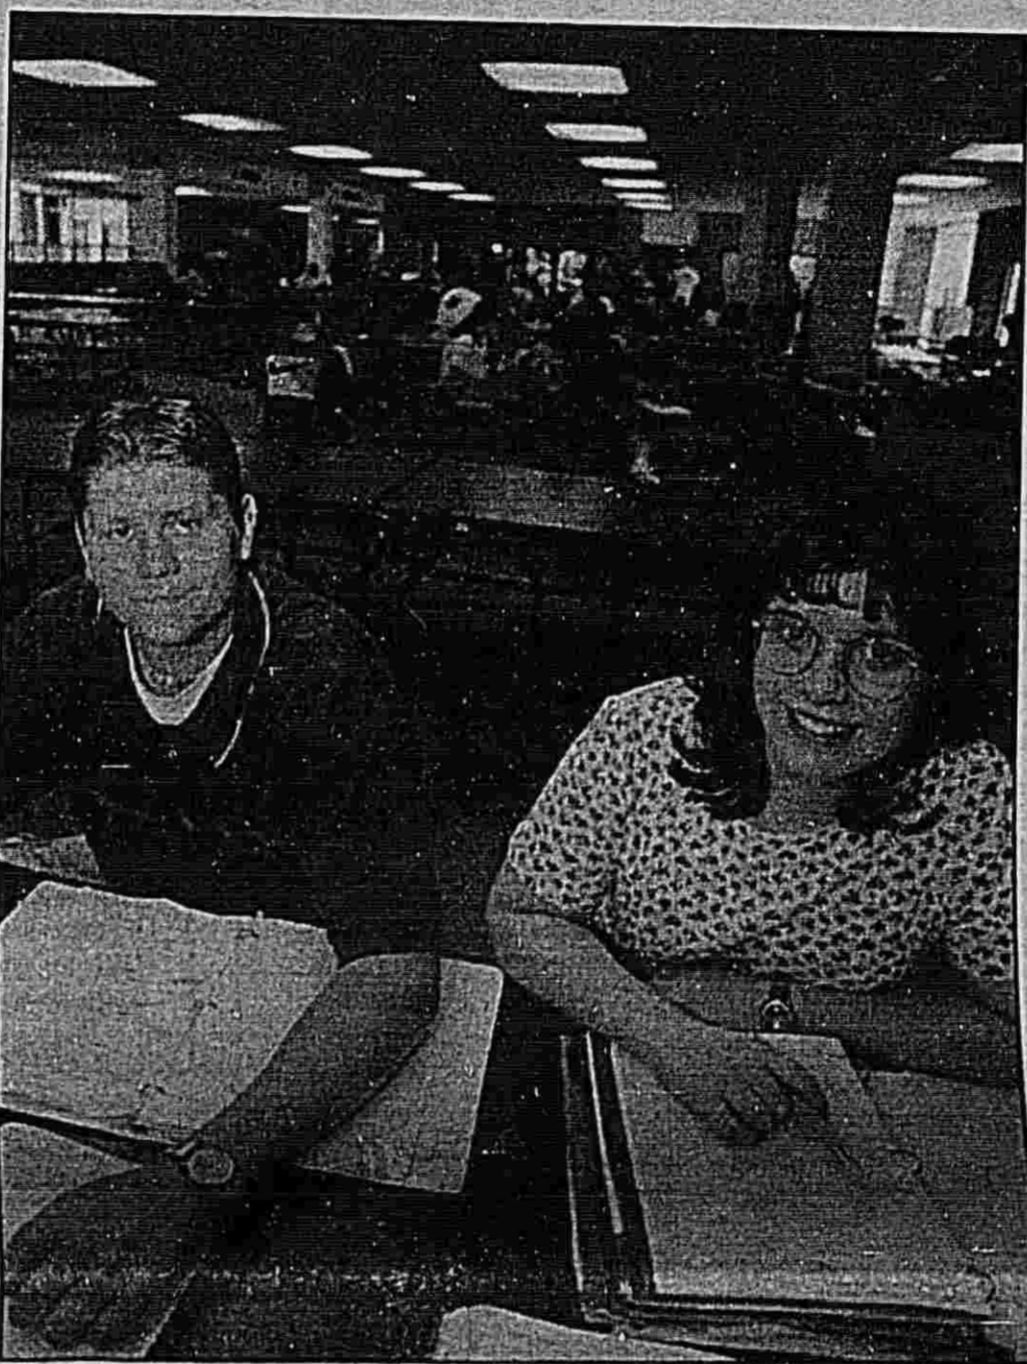

Clark played golf. "I wanted to do a sport," Clark said when she entered as a freshman student. She recalls that in her freshman year she was scoring 186 on 18 holes and needing improvement. By her senior year, she was down to 90 swings on the same holes.

"That was very exciting for me," she said of that improvement.

Chilcote said, "I played soccer and volleyball." Indeed, one of his best memories of high school is the regional soccer game at Cary Grove's high school. "We lost," he said, "but, I had the best game of my life." With volleyball, he really liked the sectional match against Palatine's high school.

His classroom work took him

2nd ACHS campus site picked

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community High School Board of Education has selected a Deep Lake Road site at Grass Lake Road for a second high school campus.

"The board adopted a resolution to acquire and condemn property," said Dennis Hockney, district superintendent.

The decision was made at a regular May 21 school board meeting.

The high school district is authorized to negotiate for the property. It also is authorized to institute condemnation proceedings if the negotiations are not successful.

"The property is located at the northeast corner of the intersection of Grass Lake Road and Deep Lake Road," said Hockney. "That's about 65 acres that the board is negotiating to obtain."

"It is our hope that that will be the next location of the new high school," Hockney said.

According to Hockney, the nearby presence of Polly Field allows the school board to acquire the property. The presence of the field means that the new school will not need to duplicate facilities. The acquisition makes financial sense.

The school board will be represented by attorney Robert Kohn of Hodges, Loizzi, Eisenhammer, Rodick and Kohn. The board's broker for the property is Otto Sprenger.

Moose benefit features car raffle for children's fund

Benefit will raise funds for ill postal worker

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Generous outpourings of fabulous auction items and big-ticket raffle prizes go onto the Moose Lodge tables for Antioch residents Sunday, May 31 at noon.

An automobile and valuable lithograph have been donated to assist the education fund for postal carrier Jody Pilcher's three children. In addition, wonderful items have been donated to create an auction block of substantial benefit to all winners.

"Everything is going real well; it's excellent," said co-chair for the event Frank L. Schultz.

"We got a car!" he said.

The benefit is to fund a college-tuition trust for the three children of Jody Pilcher. It will feature a raffle for a red 1989 Chevrolet Cavalier that has been reconditioned.

"It's in really good shape," Schultz said.

The vehicle was donated by Ray Chevrolet-Geo, of Fox Lake, and Raymond Chevrolet Olds, of Antioch. There are a limited number of tickets at $5 apiece.

There will be a special raffle for a Dennis Downes lithograph with an estimated value of $1,600. Tickets for the lithograph are $1 or 6 tickets for $5. Downes is a photographer who specializes in 1800s Native American themes and scenes.

Postal Carrier Jody Pilcher has received four chemotherapy treatments for his cancer. Remission has not been achieved yet. He was scheduled for additional chemotherapy during the middle of this week. His medical condition is extremely serious, so his friends have worked together to create a college fund for his three children. Their college tuition will be paid from a fund administered by some of the postal carriers.

The auction donations include large and small items. Some of the more dramatic donations include racetrack packages, a grill, and sports equipment, some of which is autographed.

Dairyland Racetrack has donated a "Party with the Puppies" package. Up to 23 friends can join the winning bidder for a race with free admission, dinner, parking, and racing. "The total package is about $350," Schultz said.

"The Gurnee American Legion Post will visit Jody and present him with $500 at the benefit," Schultz said. Pilcher was active in the Gurnee post.

"There is a brand new gas grill by Modern Home Products," Schultz said. "It's a beautiful looking grill," he said. The grill has an estimated value in excess of $500.

The North Chicago company that makes Jelly Belly candies also made a contribution. "They donated a dispensing machine and a whole box of Jelly Bellies," he said.

Pepsi-Cola donated 10 cases of company soda products.

"We've got a Erin the Bear Beanie Baby that was donated by Hannah's Home Accents. It's soon to be retired. It's valued at about $250 bucks," Schultz said.

"We've got two hand-made area rugs donated by Pat Hogan and John Bronder. And, we have a four-head Quasar VCR that was donated by Al Anderson of the Limerick."

Food and music will be part of the benefit to raise money. The band Crossroads will play from 5 to 8 p.m. They have donated their playing time.

"The National Association of Letter Carriers has donated all the meat and paid the transportation costs for the band," Schultz said. "Postal people are donating their time to help manage the whole affair."

The food will feature sloppy joes, Italian

TOP GRADS: ACHS names outstanding students into some interesting areas. He worked as the Editor-in-Chief of Tom Tom, the school newspaper.

"I was co-captain of the Academic Team for the scholastic bowl," he said. He was named to the All-Conference Academic Team.

Clark's love for biology led her to further work at the school with teacher Karen Day.

"She was my first biology teacher," Clark said. She worked with Day as a teacher aide to help do paperwork and computer work. She still recalls that her first assignment was to count all the grubs that had arrived in the mail. Soon she was preparing the grubs and cockroaches for laboratory studies.

For both outstanding students, it was volunteer work in the school that brought them rich personal rewards.

"The more I could help people through freshman advisory and peer mediation, the better it got," Abigail Clark said. Freshman advisory put her in study halls to help new students with studies, with class locations, and with adjustments to high school life.

Tim Chilcote spent four recent winter months managing the Snowflake Program at St. Mark Lutheran Church. The program brought students together from Millburn School, Prince of Peace School, and Palombi School. Snowflake is a drug awareness program with self-esteem building elements. It is a scaled-down variation of Snowball programs at the high school level.

Chilcote also was involved in the Student Advisory Program at ACHS and served on the advisory board.

Snowball itself was one of the top events that Clark cited as a top fun experience at Antioch Community High School. "It's been really great and positive," she said.

"(Snowball) is a day to celebrate being drug and alcohol free and making good decisions," she said. She attended the program for two years and she served as a Youth Adult Counselor during her junior and senior years. Planning for the day-long Snowball retreat at Camp MacLean in Burlington, Wis., starts in December. Snowball itself occurs in late February.

"You meet a lot of good people," she said of the Snowball retreats. The small groups encourage personal interaction and the larger sessions with speakers focus on learning. This year the students learned about violence and keeping peace as well as remaining drug-free. The team obstacle course requires groups of students to work together. "That really builds self-esteem," she said.

Clark said that she got off to a positive start at the school and kept building on that. Chilcote was less confident that it would be a positive experience for him when he visited the school before his freshman year.

"It seemed like it wasn't cared for," he said of the school building he toured with a cousin. The school was not clean. Halls had brown stains and looked in need of maintenance. Sports programs had been cut.

However, he believes that parents who invested in the school through their volunteer work made a difference. Parents help the school through Sequoit Pride, A.M.P.S., A.L.L. Parent Network, and other volunteer activities.

"They have really aided in the positive environment in the classroom," he said. Parent involvement helped the students mentally to know the community cared about what was going on at the school. He does not think the positive atmosphere would have been achieved without their volunteer work.

Both outstanding students recognized the help of their own parents.

"I had a lot of support from my mom and dad," Clark said. Her parents are Sarah and Jeff Clark and she has a sister, Amanda, 10. They were supportive at home and they always wanted her to do the best that she could.

Tim Chilcote's parents, Karen and Ron Chilcote, also supported him as he tried to work out the full schedule of activities that he had taken on. He has a brother, Tom, 14, and a sister, Tiffany, 10.

What helped them do well in school? "Pay attention in class," said Clark. Taking good notes and having a place to study gave her a good basis for the top grades she earned. She believes in study every day.

"Do your homework," said Chilcote. "It helps to do it."

For both students, there was something that they both liked about the high school experience. Chilcote said, "Just knowing all the people and being able to do all this stuff. It's just been a really great time."

Clark said, "I think it's a combination of the teachers."

"The teachers were real positive."

Clark said, "What you put into it is what you get out of it."

"I can't believe it's been four years," said Chilcote. I can't believe it's over."

"It's been fun."

New principal hired for Oakland School

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Oakland School has a new principal, Stephanie Stoneberg, who will start work Monday, June 8.

"We're delighted she will be joining our team," said Dr. Daniel L. Burke of Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34.

Stoneberg has served as Assistant Principal at Gavin Central Elementary School in District 37. "She's been with that district since 1990," said Burke. Stoneberg has served as principal there for the past few years.

"Prior to that, I taught fourth grade in Gavin district 37 for three and a half years," Stoneberg said. She also previously taught fourth grade students at a parochial school, St. Anastasia. She has a kindergarten through ninth grade teaching certification.

Stoneberg has always expected to work as a teacher and principal. She comes from a family with deep roots in education. Both of her parents were educators. Also, her mother was a principal at Immaculate Conception School in Waukegan.

"My grandmother was a principal," she said. Her grandmother served in Mundelein.

"The education of our children was always been important to me," she said.

Stoneberg has lived in Lake County for almost three decades and presently lives in Grayslake.

She is particularly pleased to be able to work in Antioch. "I was looking for a strong educational system and a very supportive community," she said.

Stoneberg is a graduate of Barat College in Lake Forest. She received her masters degree in administration from Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Ill.

Stars lining up for Brooks Memorial Concert

Claude LeMere is very enthusiastic about the upcoming July 3 community concert at Antioch Community High School. The concert will raise funds for the William E. Brook Memorial Wetlands Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

"Ken Smouse is putting on a concert, as far as entertainment is concerned, that will be second to none," he said. There are a number of very exciting things happening with this project in terms of the entertainment, the fund raising, and the creation of the project itself. Upcoming stories in this paper will focus on those aspects of the project.

Smouse has lined up the Discords, the St. Peter's Grease Band, Krystal Moon, and Jane Miles. Of Miles, LeMere said, "Her voice is absolutely beautiful."

Ticket donations will be $25 a seat. Pick them up at the Chamber of Commerce, Village Hall, First Chicago Bank, State Bank of the Lakes, and First National Bank—Employee Owned.

Parent Network sponsors Antioch High School memorial wall project

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A.L.L. Parent Network will invite people to purchase bricks to construct a memorial wall at Antioch Community High School.

The project will begin immediately.

"The bricks will become a wall in the hallway near the main entrance to the commons," said Karen Powell, a committee member working to implement this project. "This is to raise money for the A.L.L. Parent Network."

Ellen Ipsen also is working with Powell to manage this fund-raising effort.

People will purchase bricks that will have their name or some other word engraved in the brick surface.

"There are two sizes of bricks," Powell said. One style offers three lines of text on a 4-inch by 8-inch brick for a $30 donation. A second style offers five lines on an 8-inch square tile for a $60 donation.

Funds raised through this project help the A.L.L. Parent network sponsor their activities throughout the school year. These include a student-parent directory, the post-prom Odyssey Cruise, and funds for other school activities.

Examples of this type of fund-raising activity already exist in Lake Villa and Antioch. The Lake Villa Metra Station includes a brick-paved area with donated bricks.

"They did it at Centennial Park," said Powell. The bricks commemorate the 1892 incorporation of the village at the entrance to the castle climbing structure.

The school will have discretion to place the bricks as necessary in the modernization project.

"Everything will be stored at the company until it's time to put them in," Powell said.

Completed forms will be mailed to Post Office Box 713, Antioch, Illinois, 60002. Further information is available from Karen Powell at 395-6600.

ACHS accepts lower bus contract bid

The Antioch Community High School District 117 Board of Education voted May 21 to extend a contract to Jones School Bus Service for school transportation for the 1998-1999 school year.

The previous provider of school bus service was Laidlaw.

School Superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "It was not a matter of Laidlaw not providing good service to the district. It was that Jones submitted a more competitive proposal."

The Jones bid to provide school bus service for 16 daily routes was $156.80 per route per day. The Laidlaw bid was $163.20 per route per day.

Business Manager William Ahlers for District 117 said both companies are good school transportation providers and either would have been acceptable to the district. Ahlers said that he had checked with other area school districts that contract with Jones and had received good reports.

Hockney and Ahlers spent an afternoon with Jones School Bus Service owners Scott and Eric Jones at their Grayslake terminal and left with "a very positive feeling." The company has bus terminals in Elkhorn, Wis. and Grayslake on Route 83.

According to Hockney, school bus transportation is a very important part of the daily operation at the high school.

Hockney said, "As we went through the process of bidding school bus transportation services, we wanted to be sure we got not only the best value, but also a company that had an excellent safety record, and one that cared about the students it transported daily. Both bidders met this criteria."

Other Lake County school districts that have contracts with Jones School Bus Service include Grayslake Community High School District 127, Grayslake Elementary School District 46, Mundelein Elementary School District 75, and Fremont School District 79.

Jones will begin service to Antioch Community High School in August.

After "Fen-Phen," All Natural Tennen III Demand Skyrockets!

With the recent removal by the FDA of the diet drug "Fen-Phen," users are looking for a safe and effective alternative. They, as well as health care professionals, have found one that was recently introduced to the U.S. Unlike "Fen-Phen," "Redux," and "Fen-Pro," Tennen III dietary supplement and diet plan is a totally natural, totally safe product sold inexpensively over-the-counter in the diet section of health food stores nationally.

Manufactured and distributed by Buy Wise Distributors, Tennen III comes from Canada, where it has been sold nationwide for six years. President Cory Chiarello developed the product with the safety and overall health of the customer in mind. The supplement is an innovative combination of vitamins, minerals, and botanicals that help curb appetite and speed up metabolism. The capsules consist of all natural ingredients, including kelp, beet powder and gymnema, which lower "sweet cravings." Tennen III does not contain ephedrine, guarana, kola nut, or any artificial coloring of flavoring, sugar, preservatives, petroleum products, dyes, wheat, corn flour, or milk products. Many people who are diabetic, or have heart or lung conditions, can take Tennen III without side effects.

The "Diet Plan," which is included with the Tennen III product, works on chemical breakdowns, so the company advises against modifications and substitutions if possible. If certain foods cannot be tolerated, customers may call the toll free number to talk to a representative about possible substitutions. The diet consists of 1000 calories per day, and is following on a "3 day on - 4 days off" schedule. You continue on this cycle for as many weeks as it takes to reach and maintain your goals. The capsules are taken every day, two before breakfast and two before dinner. As with all diets, a physician's advice is recommended.

Tennen III is being sold across Canada, a country where 27% of the population is overweight. Introduced to the American population in October 1996, it has grown in distribution to over 7,000 pharmacies and health food stores by Fall 1997. The demand has recently become so great that additional plants are now producing Tennen III to the company's rigid specifications.

Certainly part of the success of Tennen III can be attributed to the company's marketing approach, which supports its dealer network with national and local advertising, and services the user with a toll-free "help line" to answer questions that will help to not only lose weight, but also to keep it off - naturally and safely. Many diet products available today suppress appetites by speeding up the heart rate, or by raising blood pressure - both potentially dangerous to the user's health. The company believes that by taking Tennen III capsules and plan has helped thousands of overweight people shed unwanted, and unhealthy pounds. While making no claims to be a "miracle pill," the company knows that Tennen III will help anyone lose weight, feel healthier, and do it in a natural, long lasting, and safe manner.

A couple of good ideas

This is the time of year when all the local schools print a listing of all their graduates so it seems only fitting that the Village's own Camp Crayon graduates be recognized on this very important day in their lives. After all they achieved a major milestone with the completion of their Camp Program.

They had an awful lot of ABC's to learn, dance steps to memorize, and some of those projects Miss Debbie tackled this year, well let's just say those campers were certainly challenged.

So, to all those young ones heading off the big Kindergarten next fall, congratulations and remember those Camp Crayon teachers always lover return visits by Camp alumni.

Best wishes go to: Katy Bain, Dominique Bessette, Brent Bies, Alex Dunfrund, Joey Hovorka, Taylor Krumpas, Cortney McCarthy, Emily McDonald, David Mrnak, Paul Rachek, Matthew Sheehan, Kyle Sherman, Paul Struck, Betsy Swanson, Moly Krasel, Hayden Langer, Sarah Lehmann, Ashley Madden.

Line Dance news

The columnists formerly known as "The Lizard," alas, Miss Liz or as some of us affectionately refer to her as "The Old Retired Lizard" has come up with a plan. She's caught this Line Dancing Bug that no vaccine will ever cure. She has had more fun with this new-found hobby than most people have over a course of a lifetime.

So, now she wants to start up a small group in her own home on Thursday evenings, say around 6:30 p.m. You don't have to be experienced because she plans on teaching the dances as well as administering any First Aid techniques she deems necessary to keep her partners in an upright position so they may be able to continue to dance. She has plenty of room and as much music as one cares to be exposed to. She wants to not only hone her line dance skills but perhaps use this opportunity to keep her svelte figure in tow as biking season is quickly approaching.

If this sound like something you might be interested in, give "The Old Retired One" a call at 395-5380, she can't wait to do some kickin' and stompin' close to home. And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

PROPER POSTURE FOR COUCH POTATOES

If you belong to that much-maligned group, the couch potato, you have already heard all the reasons why this particular lifestyle isn't good for you. You know about weight gain, flabby muscles, and depression. But did you know that your back also suffers from long television binges because protracted periods of sitting put pressure on the discs?

For those of you who call the couch "home", there is the additional strain of ungainly sprawls and slumped posture. If you do a lot of TV watching, there are a few precautions that can help you protect your back.

When you are sitting on the couch or in a deep chair, put a pillow behind the small of your back to prevent slumping. If you use an ottoman, keep your knees slightly bent--when legs are straight, the hamstring muscles tighten and pull on the lower back. Finally, get up every half hour or so to walk around and stretch. Most back experts recommend throwing away your remote control, because getting up to change channels manually forces you to stretch your muscles.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Dr. Reiser has served the Lake and McHenry County area for over 10 years. Let this knowledge and experience serve you. Our clinic is located at 314 Rollins Road, Round Lake Beach (Eagle Creek Plaza-corner of Cedar Lake and Rollins Road.)

Golf: a truly frustrating discipline

As sports editor, I feel it my duty to expand my sports experience and try new and challenging things. Recently, that idea has turned me to the game of golf.

Sure, we've all seen people playing golf, and made fun of those who are so passionate about the game. I was one of the many who derided others for hitting the small white ball and chasing it across the well-groomed acreage of a golf course. But I have now been initiated into the club, and it ain't half bad.

I played my first official round of golf last week, and it was a lot of fun. Of course, having never played and not taken a lesson in my life, I'm hardly eyeing the PGA for openings. I shot a respectable 120, with a slice more wicked than the Grim Reaper, but I finished strong—I chipped in on the 18th hole from about 35 feet to finish with a double-bogey on the short par three (I've even got the lingo down).

I now enjoy golf, but still refuse to watch it on television. Golf, like baseball, can be excruciating to watch, but great fun to play. And with all of the great golf courses in Lake County, I thought it was about time to announce some of the local golf outings in the area.

Mary Ellen Vanderventer, Lake County Recorder of Deeds, will hold her third Annual Golf Outing Fundraiser on Wednesday, June 10 at Orchard Hills Golf Course in Waukegan.

Individual entries cost $75 and include golf, cart, lunch, prizes and hors d'oeuvres afterward. Four-somes can be reserved for $300 in the scramble format tournament.

For more information, call James Small at 731-2524.

The Pioneer Foundation, Inc., is hosting its Sixth Annual Golf Outing. The event will be held Monday, June 15 at the Geneva National Golf Club in Lake Geneva, Wisc. Tickets are $150 per person and include 18 holes of golf with cart, lunch, dinner and prizes. Dinner only tickets are available for $35. All proceeds benefit the Pioneer Center of McHenry County.

For more information call (815) 759-7132.

The Lake County Council Navy League is hosting its annual golf outing Wednesday, June 17 at Steeple Chase Golf Club in Mundelein, one of Chicagoland's top ten public courses.

This fundraiser is to support and enhance Navy functions and programs, as well as Navy League projects and public affairs.

The tournament will be a shotgun start and best-ball scramble. The cost of the golf package is $125 which includes golf, cart, lunch, dinner, two drinks and prizes. Dinner only cost is $35.

Gooch takes aim at State Meet

Antioch track records beware

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Few records in Antioch High's track and field lore are safe. That is, until senior David Gooch receives his diploma.

Gooch has accumulated 13 Sequoia marks in his four years. Even a September knee injury which cut short football and basketball seasons did not stop him from qualifying in three events for the IHSA Class AA Boys Track and Field Meet May 29-30.

Gooch won the discus with a heave of 156-1. He won the 100-meters in :10.4 and was second to Warren's Dante Daniels in the 200-meters, :22.0.

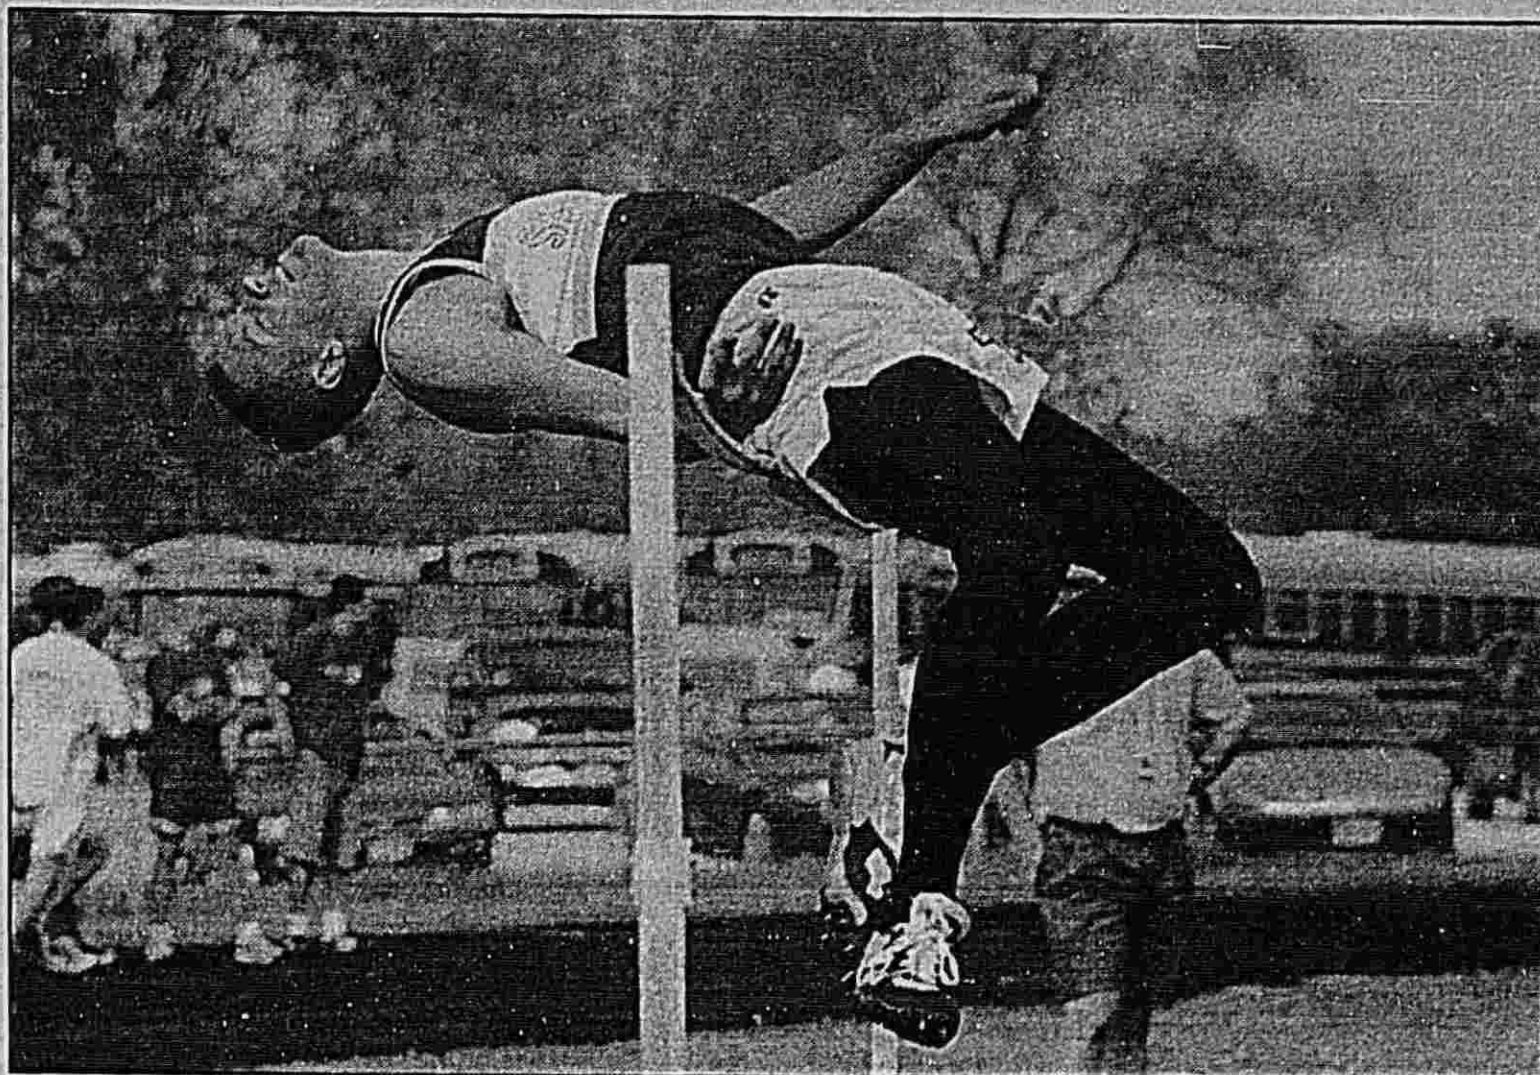

"He has gone 159 feet in the discus and if he does that, he should make it to the finals," said Antioch coach Norm Hahn.

He may have to make a choice, as the 200-meters is run too close to the discus at the state meet to do both. He was in for a busy night Friday at the Palatine Fremd Sectional.

Dave carries on a family legacy started by Sequoia standouts Doug and Scott Gooch. Quinn Gooch, a sophomore, has two more years left at Antioch.

"It is nice that I will have a legacy here. It is something I will never forget," said Gooch.

Hahn said the 200-meters is the most taxing on Gooch's injured knee. Still, the 22.3 clocking was the best effort in 24 years for Antioch.

"I am amazed that he has been able to come back that far after surgery. The 200 is a longer race and there is a lot of lateral stress on the knee," said Hahn.

Gooch's strength in the 100-meters is his quick start, and he was able to out-lunge Daniels at the tape.

Antioch also received a place winner as Don Lackey, a sophomore, was fifth in the high jump.

"That was his first year jumping," said Hahn.

Antioch finished with 39 points in sixth place in the meet won by Libertyville.

Rogers throws 117 at State Meet

Katie Rogers concluded her junior year with a taste of what life is like at the state track and field meet.

The junior threw the discus 117-1 as her best effort of three in the preliminaries.

"She said she was not nervous, but I could tell she was. Her first two were not even close to 117," said Antioch coach Kathy Kelly.

The junior has one more year to make it back to the state meet at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston. She threw a 124-8 to qualify at the Stevenson sectional.

"She wants to go back to state again; she just has to find the time to work on it," said Kelly.

Antioch's other hopes next year will be Cindy Aikus, who will be a senior long and triple jumper and junior hurdler Becky Clarke.

"It was a disappointing season in terms of placing, but there was a lot of improvement. We are still a young team, losing only five seniors to graduation," said Kelly.

Seventh-inning rally inspires Grant softball

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Although trailing by one run with three outs to work with, Grant's softball squad had confidence.

"The team was all excited to play them all the way here," said Jessica Schenning of Grant.

Schenning, a senior, emerged as the winning pitcher in two innings of relief work. She and heads-up defense stopped Antioch after that initial run in a 2-1 Grant win.

"I just relaxed and got my hands out, like I did on the first hit," said Grant senior Kristy Gibbs.

Gibbs was 2-3 for the night. Her double down the left-field line started the game-winning rally. Jill Jonas then singled her in.

One out later, Amy Springer reached base on an error. Lead-off hitter Nichole Trinchetilla's RBI single then won the game.

"This could turn our whole season around," said Gibbs.

Gibbs has played third, catcher, first and second base for the 9-11

Bulldogs.

"It compares with our win over Mundelein. Both teams have a very aggressive style. We worked in batting practice on getting the hands out," said Grant coach Sue Wings.

Antioch senior Nicole Langley, playing in her last game at Williams Park, was hit by a pitch from Jonas in the first. She went to second, then scored on an RBI single by Megs Kotlarz.

Antioch had base runners in all innings except the final one, but left seven on base. An interference call and a double play were largely to blame for cancelling those rallies.

"We had our chances, but we didn't take advantage of them. We have been struggling on offense all year," said Antioch coach Steve Wapon. Antioch starting pitcher Kristen Scopel fanned five in a losing effort.

Grant hosts Grayslake in the first round of the Waukegan regional May 28. Antioch (14-13), No. 3 seed, battles Lake Forest. Semifinals are May 30.

Sequoits regroup for runner-up honors in NSC

Antioch trounces Mundelein in doubleheader

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Antioch brushed back its three-game losing streak and set its sights on second place in the North Suburban Conference baseball race.

The Sequoits achieved their objectives in cooling off a previously hot Mundelein offense in a 9-1 win. Antioch (23-6, 11-3) secured second place with a 4-1 win in the second game with Mundelein.

Antioch had lost its chance for an NSC crown when it lost twice to Libertyville.

"Our three game slide is over. In high school baseball, there is not a lot of room for three-game slides. We played well. We hit the ball well and the defense was good and pitching was solid," said Antioch coach Paul Petty.

Antioch's Brett McCullom, Jason

Schuler and Reggie Hughes all hit homers for Antioch. It was No. 12 for Hughes. McCullom had No. 6, while Schuler's was his fourth dinger.

Ace Karl Richter got the win on the mound for his 11th win.

McCullom earned the win in the second game. He was backed up by seven hits and a four-run fourth inning.

Antioch's last three spots in the order came through after being shut down by Libertyville pitching.

Lead-off man Ray George was 3-4. Chris Groth was 3-4 with two singles and a double.

"Karl Richter pitched a Karl Richter-type game. He had 14-21 outs as ground balls, struck out 5 and did not walk anyone," said Petty.

Antioch is the No. 1 seed in the Waukegan regional. It faces No. 8 North Chicago at home May 28. The semifinals are May 30 in Waukegan with the final June 2.

Warren is No. 2 seed followed by: Zion-Benton at No. 3, Waukegan at No. 4, Grayslake at No. 5, Round Lake at No. 6 and Grant at No. 7.

Mundelein won a slugfest in a 16-12 win over Zion-Benton. The two split, as Zion won 13-0 in the other game of the doubleheader.

Garrett Metzger and Grant Shepherd homered and Tony Nelson doubled. Mundelein pulled the game out with runs in its last two at-bats.

"Metzger has five home runs this season and he hits the ball with authority. Jim Rollins has been hitting well, as he has been moved from No. 9 to lead-off to get him more at bats. Nelson hits the ball consistently from the No. 5 spot," said Mundelein coach Todd Parola.

All that offense came to an end thanks to Richter and the Sequoits

Tuesday and Thursday,

Mundelein hurler Matt Pagochnik left the Antioch game after four innings after being hit in the left arm. The Mustangs hope it is nothing serious and he will be back for a May 28 regional opening game with Woodstock.

Pagochnik threw a shutout in a 2-0 win over Stevenson.

"He was outstanding. He mixed his speeds up well and got a lot of ground-ball outs," said Parola.

Mundelein was 18-11 overall, 5-8 NSC. Pre-tournament games, where Mundelein is No. 3 seed, include a doubleheader with Grayslake May 23.

Mundelein held the early lead, but could not contain an impressive offensive showing by Stevenson in a North Suburban Conference loss.

Stevenson had a 17-hit attack and an eight-run fourth inning as it continued to improve in the NSC.

Metzger was 2-2, with two walks, two doubles and an RBI for Mundelein. Nelson, a first baseman, was 2-4 and scored a run. Josh Lieberman had a triple.

Mundelein led 4-1 after two innings but could not hold back the Pats.

Stevenson's hits came off five Mundelein pitchers and included four extra-base hits. Keith Colosi and

Typhoon go 1-2-1 in Libertyville Cup

U-10 soccer

The Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys, U10, NISL Bronze) competed in the Under 10 Boys Premier Division at the Libertyville Cup '98 tournament held over Memorial Day weekend. The first game against the SEYSA Pumas of Chicago was won by the Typhoon 7-0. Goals for the Typhoon were scored by Jason Moxley (2), Kyle Kozuch, Eric Voight, Patrick McLane, and Danny Braun. Midfielder Ian Hunter kept control of the attack and assisted in one score. Goalies Darren Nordstrom and Eric Voight had little business as the Typhoon defense rarely let the Pumas get through. Notable players were Patrick McLane, Ian Hunter, Ryan Knupp, and Alan Kroeger.

The second game brought a much more significant challenge as the Typhoon faced Palatine Celtic United. It turned out to be a long afternoon as a very organized Celtic United team passed and shot well to take a 4-1 victory over the Typhoon. Midfielder Ian Hunter scored the only Typhoon goal with the assist going to forward Jason Moxley. Typhoon goalies Brett Carlson and Kyle Kozuch performed well for the Typhoon while under constant pressure. Notable players for the Typhoon were Jason Moxley, Ryan Knupp and Joe Barlow.

The third game was hard fought match and in the end the El Lions of Lake Zurich defeated the Typhoon 1-0. The Typhoon goalies Darren Nordstrom and Kyle Kozuch were great and stopped a number of good shots to keep the Typhoon in the running. Notable players were Jason Moxley, Brett Carlson, Dany Alvarez, and Patrick McLane.

In the final game of the tournament the Lindenhurst Typhoon tied the Wheeling Wildcats 1-1. Typhoon forward Danny Braun scored the only goal, although there were a number of other very close shots. The Typhoon goalies Eric Voight and Kyle Kozuch played well and the defense, notably Joe Barlow, were tenacious in preventing the Wildcats from penetrating Typhoon territory. Notable players for the Typhoon were Jason Moxley, Ryan Knupp, Luke Ksioszk, Dany Alvarez, Alan Kroeger, Brett Carlson and Ian Hunter.

The Typhoon finished the tournament with a record 1-2-1 which earned them 3rd place overall and some excellent "premier level experience" to take to the next tournament.

Mustang Travelers take second

The Lake Villa Mustang Travelers took second place in the Memorial Weekend tournament in Racine, Wis. The Travelers beat Vernon Hills 19-2, Racine Bulldogs 12-6 and the Lake County Chiefs 9-8 before bowing to the Milwaukee Angels 10-8 in the championship game. Bret Huotari was the tourney standout, striking out 19 batters in 9 innings of pitching. Huotari also went 8 for 11 at the plate with 8 runs batted in during the tournament and is hitting at a .560 clip for the season.

Other tournament standouts for the Travelers include solid pitching from David Kent, Sean Hertz, Scott Schem and Justin Brown. Clutch hitters include Bret Winters at .462; Frank Militello, .289; David Kent, .545 and Scot Schem at .500. Schem blasted a clutch home run to spark the comeback victory over the Lake County Chiefs. Defensive standouts were Brandon Geweke at second base, John Hauser at short stop with Trevor Hall and Brett Winters sharing the catching duties. Brian DeSalvo and Kyle Bryant were outstanding in the outfield.

Bats pace wins in league softball games for ACHS

Softball recap: Antioch swept Libertyville and beat Lake Forest in a late-season surge of wins in North Suburban Conference softball.

Antioch stopped Lake Forest 6-5 and beat Libertyville 6-4 and 8-2 before losing to Mundelein as the Mustangs clinched the title on Tuesday with a 4-2 win.

"We controlled the game well with sound defense," coach Steve Wapon said of the win over Lake Forest.

Lead-off hitter Shannah Jaburek was 2-4 and Jocelyn McRae was 2-4 with two RBI and run scored. Nicole Langley and Becky Birren had a hit apiece.

Kristen Scopel earned her 10th win of the season on the mound.

The offense clicked in the eight-run game against Libertyville. Langley and McRae had two hits each and scored two runs. Megs Kotlarz was 2-4 with a run scored.

In the second game, sophomore Kaeleen O'Connell started but Scopel came in and finished the game to earn the win.

McRae had a 4-4 game. Kotlarz was 2 of 4 with a double and Jenny Minor was 2-3 with a run. Carrie Hagglund was 1-3 with a run.

Antioch's top hitters are: Kotlarz at .455, Minor at .318 and Jaburek at .300.

Antioch scored the first two runs on Tuesday against Mundelein, only to see the Mustangs rally.

Antioch (14-12) hosts its own quad meet May 23 with Burlington, Wis., Prairie Ridge of Crystal Lake, and Regina squaring off. Next up is the Waukegan Regional tournament.

Lightning post 1-2 record in Racine tournament

The Lake Villa Lightning, Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13-year-old Traveling Team, played in the annual Racine Tournament. Lake Villa (8-3) went 1-2 in the tournament with a 7-5 loss to Crystal Lake, a 5-0 shutout of Mt. Prospect, and a 6-2 loss to Lake Zurich.

A fine Crystal Lake team beat LV in the opener of the tournament 7-5 behind some clutch hitting which took advantage of a number of Lightning walks and two critical errors. They shut the door on a last inning rally as LV, whose offense sputtered all night, scored one and had the tying runs in scoring position in the bottom of the 6th.

Matt Poleck led the offense going 2 for 2 while driving in 3 runs including the game tying hit with 2 outs in the 4th. Chad Stroup, who started and tossed 2 shutout innings, scored 3 times and drove in a run with a long triple. Matt Lukemeyer followed Stroup's triple with an RBI single in the 2nd.

Sean Walker pitched an inning and chipped in a hit while scoring the first run of the game. Scott Wold also scored, stole a base, and threw out a runner in the 3rd. He finished the game by tossing a no run, no hit inning in the 6th highlighted by an outfield assist as Scott Coles threw out a Crystal Lake runner at the plate from right field.

Others reaching base in the game included Greg Kruse, Kyle Robinson, Brian Blanas, and Scott Coles.

Ryan Myers (1-1) took the loss in relief but struck out 3 Crystal Lake batters in 2 innings.

In game 2, the Lake Villa pitchers shut down the Mt. Prospect offense and only allowed 4 singles and 1 walk over 6 innings. Sean Walker (2-0) got the start and the victory and struck out 3 over 2 perfect innings. He also drove in two of the runs with two hits. Nick Blocker, Chad Stroup, and Ryan Myers tossed the last four innings as the staff combined for 10 strike outs highlighted by Stroup's three K 5th inning.

Brad Hoogerhyde led the hitting with 2 hits, a double and 2 RBI's. Brian Blanas also had 2 hits, scored a run, and stole a base. Nick Blocker keyed the 2 run 3rd inning with his double as he drove in a run and scored later on Walker's hit.

Others with hits included Matt Poleck (single run, steal) and Stroup (triple) while Scott Wold chipped in a run on 2 walks and a stolen base. Brett Bairstow was robbed of extra bases and an RBI as his 4th inning drive into left-center was caught resulting in a double play.

Game 3 against Lake Zurich was a combination of wasted opportunities and a number of give-aways resulting in unearned Scorpion runs. Lake Zurich also did well by making a number of great defensive plays while not allowing a single walk in the contest. Chad Stroup was solid on the mound in relief going 2 innings while allowing no runs on 1 hit. He struck out 3.

Ryan Myers had two hits and scored a run while Brian Blanas drove in one and scored one on his 3rd inning single. Others with hits included Brad Hoogerhyde, Sean Walker (RBI) C.J. Walleck (triple) and Stroup.

HOUSE HUNTER'S BARGAINS

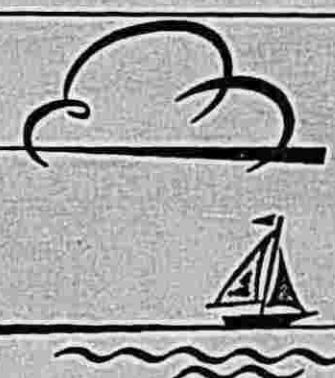

Houses that are spotlessly clean and tastefully decorated tend to sell quickly and for top dollar. There can be substantial savings for home-buyers who are willing to overlook surface clutter or other cosmetic failings of a house.

When you look at a home that needs work, try to imagine with fresh paint, refinished floors and new carpet. Consider the good things about the house. Would it get more sunlight if the draperies were opened and the windows cleaned? Does the backyard have potential? Try to distinguish between the cosmetic condition of the house and the state of its structure and major systems. Some fixer-uppers need a lot of professional attention from electricians, plumbers and other expensive professionals, while others are true bargains that can be transformed with a little elbow grease, a paint brush, and your imagination.

ACHS girls win bragging rights by beating Rams

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

When Antioch and Grayslake girls soccer players gather next fall to play for Lindenhurst teams, Antioch players will have some bragging to do.

The Sequoias and Rams are often members of the same traveling teams in the off-season. Antioch earned a second-round spot in the Stevenson sectional with a 1-0 win Saturday.

Junior Jodie Schultz scored the match's lone goal. She beat Rams goalie Dianne Bonner after passes by Jamie Wismer and Emily Niles on a play in the 54th minute.

"We played real well. We did not key for anybody. They put three or four people on Becca Bleyer and that was the key to their success. The cross was a lucky play. The fullback saw it, but did not react in time. We have a lot of freshmen and sophomore players," said Rams coach Joe Martinez.

"Bleyer is a nice player. Our girls know her real well. It was for bragging rights. It does not matter what each team is doing because our girls know each other so well," said Antioch coach Charles Trout.

The Rams conclude the season at 11-9.

Schultz, the top sub, comes in often when a starter needs a rest. She has six goals, second on the team. Mandy Fasno leads with 15 goals.

"They're a lot of my friends on that team on the Shooting Stars. The win shows we are starting to work together as a team," said Schultz.

"We try and build from the center out and the outside in," said Trout.

Mary Ipsen, Kristin Gamlin, Jessie Feldman and Jourdain Phillips stopped Bleyer and the rest of the Grayslake offense. Kristin Miodonski, a senior, stopped all Rams shots on goal.

"She did a good job and did not let anything squirt threw," said Trout.

Antioch, 13-6-1 overall, battles Lake Forest in the second round. The Sequoias were 3-2 in the NSC.

"Our whole goal this year is to win a regional and we had to win this to do that. We start two freshmen and four juniors so we have a lot of starters coming back," said Trout.

Irish Setters Priscilla and Chase set about the task of moving geese off the grounds of a forest preserve golf course. The dogs naturally clear the golf courses of the geese to prevent nesting and soiling of the courses.

Geese busters

Canines clear courses of aviary annoyances

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

Got geese, get a dog. That's what the Lake County Forest Preserve did and it seems to be working. Golf courses in Lake County are paradise to geese which flock to them every spring, destroying the grass and leaving behind a less than pleasant reminder of their presence for the golfers. The forest preserve was contemplating purchasing a pooch to patrol its courses and chase away the birds.

Casper Ziegler, owner of Classic Kennel, in rural Grayslake, heard of the forest preserves' plan and stepped forward with a solution. He raises champion Irish Setters, and said he and his dogs were up to the challenge.

"I saw in the paper a couple of golf courses were thinking of purchasing dogs. So I contacted the forest preserve and said we could probably work something out," explained Ziegler.

Five days a week, Ziegler chooses two of his nine dogs for the job and heads out to a golf course.

Currently, he concentrates most of his time at Countryside Golf Course in Mundelein. He also visits Brae Loch, on an as-needed basis and two courses which asked to remain anonymous. Once the grass at the forest preserve's new course, Thunderhawk, begins growing, he will visit there also.

"I guess over the last couple of years they've had over 100 geese at Countryside. Now they're down to four to six," he said.

The dogs have done such a good job chasing the geese off Brae Loch they've practically eliminated their job.

"I've got one dog who can do 26 holes in 20 minutes," Ziegler said.

Lake County Forest Preserve's Superintendent of Golf Courses Tom Morgensen, said Ziegler will run his dogs on the courses until June 1.

"The only thing I would change is to do it seven days a week in stead of five," he said.

The dogs are very well trained he said and they are

My Favorite Hawaiian Side Trips

by JIM WARNKEN,

President, North Star Travel, Inc.

With six very unique islands, Hawaii offers enough different adventures to guarantee something for everyone.

The follow are a few of my favorite, listed by island.

Kauai, my favorite Hawaiian Island, is known for its luxurious vegetation and natural beauty which is more evident on the north shore. I'm speaking of the awesome Na Pali Coast, featured in many movies, most recently Jurassic Park.

The best way to experience this spectacular, but remote, area is by a Captain Zodiac raft trips where you will stop at remote beaches, snorkel into sea caves and much more.

Moving on to Maui, the top adventure has to be whale watching.

Every year between about December and April, these giants head for the warm waters of Maui to make baby giants. There are many, (maybe too many) whale watching excursions operating from Maui. For an educational, as well as entertaining, cruise, sail with the Pacific Whale Foundation and its team of whale researchers.

Oahu, home to Honolulu, Waikiki Beach and Don Ho, has everything a tourist could ask for. Sometimes there's just too many tourists, though. However, there is a place seen by virtually every tourist in Waikiki, but is visited by very few. I'm talking about the famous landmark, Diamond Head.

You can get to the top of Diamond Head for a spectacular look at Waikiki, and you don't have to be a mountain climber to do it! Just take Diamond Head Road to the inland side of the crater. There you'll find a tunnel leading inside to an Army Base. Signs will direct you to a gentle path leading to an old artillery bunker. Climb the stairs, step through the opening where the guns used to be, and the view will take your breath away.

I'll save the jeep ride through Waipio Valley on the "Big Island" and Molokai's famous mule ride for another article.

For some marriages, the honeymoon's never over

Unless you're the President, marriage in the '90s is not an easy affair. So I feel pretty lucky to be able to say that my husband and I are celebrating our 10th wedding anniversary. And if I had to sum up the secret of our marital longevity to date, I could do it in one word: "oysters".

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

No, wait, that's the secret of my brother-in-law's marital success.

For us, the one word would be: "children". (Although I often wonder if maybe raising oysters might be easier.)

This may seem to go against all you've learned previously from the experts, who warn that couples should never have children to strengthen their marriage - in other words, don't expect to spice things up by switching from "wining and dining" to just plain "whining".

And the experts are mostly right. But in our case, things were a little different, since we started out with two children (mine) already in residence, from Day One. I believe that my husband, who prior to our relationship had never experienced fatherhood before, will tell you that my children actually helped prepare him for marriage. They taught him lessons he might never have learned otherwise, such as:

1. SAFETY: A man hoping to eventually sire children should never stand within striking distance of a three-foot-tall 6-year-old dressed as a Ninja.

2. DATING TIPS: As my then 9-year-old son informed my future husband, "You'd better be nice to my Mom - she killed all her other boyfriends and put them in the attic."

In addition to these invaluable lessons, the immediate presence of two children in our marriage (and the later addition of two more) assured us of precious little time alone together.

But instead of this being a negative effect, it has been just the opposite.

Think about it. Part of the heightened thrill of having an illicit affair, for example, is in trying to find stolen moments of romance together without getting caught. Heck, our whole marriage has been like that.

There is nothing that will keep the zippity-doo-da in your relationship like knowing that at any moment (unfortunately, it's usually "the" moment), someone may knock at your bedroom door and say, "I have to go potty right n...uh, oh. Too late!"

And it isn't just the younger ones who seem to have impeccable timing. Even our teenagers seem to be unable to resist the temptation of knocking on a closed door. And they're just as hard to get rid of.

For example:

Teenager, after knocking:

"Mom?"

Mom, after muttering under her breath: "We're busy."

Teenager: "Doing what?"

Mom: "Ummm...nothing. What do you want?"

Teenager: "Can you open the door? It's hard to talk this way."

See what I mean? Thanks to our children, our marriage has been 10 years of thrill-seeking.

Unfortunately, they always find us before we get too thrilled.

Which is why, if you think of a honeymoon as two weeks of uninterrupted lovemaking, my husband and I are still technically on our "honeymoon".

I do have one complaint, though - the maid service in this "hotel" is terrible.

MOVIE REVIEW

Beatty bombs big-time in 'Bulworth'

Over the many years that Warren Beatty has been making films in Hollywood, he has gone from the sublime, such as his award-winning "Reds", and "Splendor in the Grass," to the ridiculous, ergo "Ishtar."

His latest effort, "Bulworth," a supposed political satire, falls in between, but as it crosses the finish line, we find it leaning towards the "Ishtar" category.

He starts out well enough in his starring, directing, writing effort as we meet Senator Jay Billington Bulworth, one of the many corrupt cogs in a political system ruled and dependent on money from big corporations.

Before the 1996 election, a depressed Bulworth faces what he and the political game have become.

In an effort to solve this problem, Bulworth decides that this is the time for painful truth in politics, time to tell the people who elected him what is really going on in Washington.

In a scheduled speech, he informs all of the mostly black audience that the government cares nothing for them.

This scene is one of those that force you to look away because you are embarrassed as Beatty launches into a rap narrative about the corrupt system, a music medium in which he is sadly lacking.

Now he is so depressed with the state of his life, despite a little romantic lolly-gagging with the beautiful Halle Berry, that he hires a hit man to end it all.

At one time he masquerades as a circus clown. Because he changes his mind, a lot of the rest of the film involves his efforts at eluding the hit man while he is courting the very system he started out to rid the country of.

Beatty, like many aging actors, uses his directorial and writing capacities to make himself look good. He fails miserably.

On the strength of the first hour of the movie until it ran amuck, we give this rather strange picture, 2.5 out of a possible five stars.

Tips for making yourself look younger, healthy

The secret to eternal youth is something that has fascinated scientists and science fiction writers for years. As yet, no one has found the answer, but certainly today's woman has a far better chance of living longer, staying healthy and keeping her looks than her great grandmother did.

1. Eat a healthy diet. This gives your body the fuel it needs to function properly—make sure it includes whole-grain breads, fresh fruit and cereals. Cut down on fats and sugars.

A good eating pattern should enable you to keep your weight fairly stable.

2. Keep yourself moving! Don't fall into the trap of saying "I'm getting older, so I've got to slow down."

A brisk daily walk does wonders for your general well-being. Alternatively, take up a new sport or catch up on one you enjoyed a few years ago.

3. Exercise the mind as well as the body. Join a class at your local community college.

4. Look after your skin. The main cause of wrinkling and age spots is sun damage, so always use a good sunscreen.

Adopt a good basic skin care routine of cleanse, tone and moisturize. Remember that skin changes as you get older; just because you had greasy skin in your teens, it doesn't mean you have greasy skin now.

5. Don't smoke, and only drink alcohol in moderation.

6. Don't get stuck in a hair and makeup rut. The looks that suited you 10 years ago are not necessarily the most flattering now.

Planning for retirement requires foresight

With the number of years people are spending in retirement increasing, it's become more important than ever to plan your retirement budget carefully. If you're not sure how much you'll need to finance your leisure years, read what the Illinois CPA Society has to say about developing a retirement budget.

A lifestyle decision

CPAs say you'll need 70 to 80 percent of your pre-retirement income to maintain your standard of living in retirement. However, the exact amount depends on the type of retirement you have in mind. For example, some retirees who have traveled extensively on business may look forward to spending their retirement years close to home. Others have long dreamed of a retirement filled with trips to exotic destinations. The more expensive your hobbies, interests, and leisure time activities, the more money you'll need in retirement.

Assessing your expenses

While some of your expenses will remain the same in your retirement years, others may not. Take the time before you reach retirement to estimate these expenses so that you can anticipate how much retirement income you'll need. For example, you can count on spending less on work-related expenses, such as business clothing, dry cleaning, lunches out, and commuting costs. If your mortgage will be paid off by the time you retire, you won't need to send that monthly check to the bank, but keep in mind that there's no getting away from property taxes, homeowners insurance, and maintenance expenses, all of which are likely to increase over time. And remember when you're in the house more often, you can expect to pay more for heat, air conditioning, electric, and other utilities.

Taxes are another area where you should see expenses drop. At least part of your Social Security benefits will be tax free, and since the tax rules don't consider pension. Your total income is likely to be less in retirement than it was while you were working, which means you'll pay less income tax.

One expense you're likely to see significantly increase after retirement is the cost of health care. As employers cut back on health care coverage for retirees, more retirees are faced with the expense of buying health insurance on their own. Add the cost of out-of-pocket medical expenses, like prescription drugs which are not covered by some plans, and health care becomes a major budget item.

When planning your retirement budget, keep in mind that you'll need to factor in inflation has averaged 4 percent in the United States since 1926. If you need help determining how inflation impacts your retirement budget, you might want to consult with a CPA.

If you're among those who plan to work during retirement, build your contacts before you actually retire and make your wishes known. This task will help to ensure that more business and opportunities come your way.

Remember, planning for your retirement requires as much foresight as it does math skills. CPAs can help you put your financial house in order and assist you in planning for your future financial well-being, but only you can make the vision of your retirement years a reality through disciplined savings.

Studies show that pets are good for health

Most people know it intuitively. Pet owners know it for certain. And now the scientific evidence is growing—pets are good for people's health.

That's one good reason to give a dog a home in October, which is Adopt-A-Shelter-Dog Month.

Studies show that pets are especially beneficial to seniors. For instance, a study of 1,000 Medicare recipients showed that the seniors who owned dogs had 21 percent fewer contacts with a physician. Another study, of heart patients, reveals that people over 40 who own pets have lower blood pressure levels.

The Pet Food Institute says that's easy to explain. For one thing, walking dogs keeps seniors active. And pets ease loneliness and depression. "Seniors," the Pet Food Institute says, "take better care of themselves when they own a pet."

Tips for finding an animal friend

Adopt-A-Shelter-Dog Month in October is the perfect time to invite a four-legged friend to join your family. But before you adopt, consider this advice from the Pet Food Institute:

- Choose the right pet for your lifestyle. If you don't enjoy long walks, for instance, a lively dog who needs lots of exercise won't be a good match.

- Pet owners should consult a veterinarian annually to ensure their pet's good health and should follow their veterinarian's advice on spaying and neutering.

- Dogs need clean, fresh water daily, and they should be fed food that is nutritionally complete and balanced.

- At the shelter, look beyond the puppies. Mature dogs, too, make wonderful pets.

- Remember, giving a dog a home is a long-term commitment.

- Be sure to seek the advice of shelter workers. They can make sure you and your new friend are a good match.

Warning: You may be at risk for having a stroke

Has anyone ever said to you, "Calm down before you have a stroke?"

It's a warning worth heeding. Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States and the number one cause of adult disability. Nearly 550,000 Americans have strokes every year. More than 150,000 of them die.

A stroke is a "brain attack." Strokes occur when a blood clot or ruptured artery interrupts the flow of blood to the brain, the body's most vital organ. When cells in that area of the brain are deprived of the oxygen and nutrients the blood provides, they die and functions that they once controlled are permanently impaired or lost.

This sets off a chain reaction of chemical and electrical events that endanger a much larger area of the tissue in the brain.

Older Americans at Risk

There are a number of risk factors for stroke which can be addressed by therapeutic interventions or by altering behavior, including high blood pressure, heart disease, cigarette smoking, heavy alcohol use, high cholesterol, a previous stroke or transient ischemic attack, previous heart attack, heart disease, arterial fibrillation, diabetes, carotid artery (in the neck) disease, and a family history of stroke.

How do you know if you are having a stroke? Here are the symptoms to watch for:

- One-sided numbness, or paralysis of face, arm, or leg.
- Sudden blurred or decreased vision.
- Difficulty speaking or understanding.
- Dizziness, loss of balance or loss of coordination, especially when combined with other symptoms.

- Sudden severe, unexplainable headache, often described as the worst of your life.

If you or someone near you suffers one or more of these symptoms, call 911 or your designated emergency number immediately.

Janssen Research Foundation is currently evaluating a neuroprotective agent at 70 centers in the United States.

For more information on strokes, call the National Stroke Association at 1-800-STROKES.

Baking soda: we can't seem to get enough

Dentists admit they're not quite sure how—or why—baking soda made its way from the kitchen to the toothpaste tube. Some speculate that it's just the fact it feels good—consumers love that foaming-action, baking-soda feeling.

Whatever their reasons, Americans are buying toothpaste with baking soda in growing numbers. Over the past year, baking soda was an ingredient in 25 percent of the $1.5 billion toothpaste market in the United States. The newest entry is Baking Soda Formula Rembrandt.

But toothpaste is just one use for the derivative of trona, a naturally occurring mineral. Researchers at Rembrandt discovered numerous other personal care uses for baking soda. Here are a few of them:

- Sprinkle baking soda in shoes to remove odors.

- Mix a small amount of baking soda with shampoo for a deep clean that helps remove styling products from your hair.

- Turn your favorite facial cleanser into a facial scrub by mixing it with baking soda.

- Dust underarms with baking soda for a natural, effective deodorant.

- Soothe sunburn by taking a lukewarm bath mixed with a box of baking soda.

For all the reasons why brushing your teeth with baking soda is good for you, call 1-800-548-3663.

Six tips for a good night's sleep

Everyone deserves the luxury and comfort of a good night's sleep. Science cannot tell us exactly why a body needs sleep and how much, but medical research confirms the wisdom behind the old Irish proverb: "Good sleep is the beginning of good health."

Sleep restores not only physically but mentally as well. These six simple tips can help you sleep well and wake up refreshed:

- Think of your bedroom as the relax room. Make sure the environment is restful. It should be quiet and stress-free. Adjust the temperature to a comfortable level and dim the lights. Sleep on a firm mattress with clean sheets.

- Spend 15 minutes relaxing before retiring. Take a warm bath. Read a book. Listen to soft music. Drink a glass of milk.

- Establish and maintain a routine. Follow your own body clock; some people feel rested with six hours sleep and others need eight hours. Always wake up at the same time, no matter what time you go to sleep.

- Avoid heavy exercise, alcohol and drugs, caffeine and cigarettes immediately before going to bed.

- Once in bed, relax your body, muscle by muscle. To help you relax try spending five minutes doing a mental "guided imagery" exercise, focusing on each body part (i.e. left calf, right calf) from scalp to toes.

- Try sleeping with a contour pillow. It's designed to follow the natural contours of the neck and head to support and align the body as nature intended, while therapeutic foam fingers adjust to the individual.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'If the White House is A-Rockin' is mixed bag of laughs

Second City E.T.C.'s latest satirical revue, "If the White House is A-Rockin', Don't Come A-Knockin'," focuses more on societal misery at large than the shenanigans at our nation's capitol.

In a way, that's unfortunate, since the comedic troupe usually shines brightest at political lampooning.

The current production, directed by Noah Gregoropoulos, dwells on urban rage, the homeless, a food-obsessed therapist and the like. Often, the humor generated by the six-member cast has a tough time overcoming the dark side of the quirky sketches.

You'll get a laugh out of the Alcoholics Anonymous skit featuring a character (Craig Cackowski) who, though tempted, has never had a drink. Then there's the news feed of a plane crash scene that two principals from "Lucky Deal Used Cars" try to turn into a commercial for their Value Days promotion. This teeters, maybe because they try too hard.

A funnier bit involves the blind woman who invites her date in to her apartment for a drink, not realizing that a homeless man has been sharing her living quarters for the past two years.

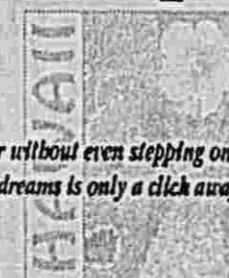

But then there's a familiar shtick involving a character (played by Horatio Sanz) who fills his weekends crashing weddings, funerals and wakes. And, later, an unpromising look at a Vietnam War veteran who returns to that country—only to have dinner in a restaurant run by his former tormentor.

Improvisation, a bedrock upon which Second City laid its foundation, is limited to a brief, flimsy scene in which the cast parodies something chosen at random from the daily paper.

"If the White House is A-Rockin'," which opened May 17, has settled in for an open run at the theater, 1608 N. Wells, Chicago. For ticket information, call (312) 642-8189.—By Tom Witom

Great tomatoes need support

Tomatoes need to be grown with support to help fight disease and enhance early maturity. After setting tomatoes out into the garden, it is a good idea to place the support system about the tomato bushes shortly thereafter, so you will not injure the fruits' root system.

There are many different support systems you can use. There are the tomato cages you can buy just about anywhere. They work pretty good with determinate bush type tomatoes. This variety does not vine out as much as the indeterminate types. I use these cages for the cherry tomatoes, my other varieties get too big and the tomato cages are not strong enough to support them.

GARDEN JOURNAL

Lydia Huff

A good method I have used in my garden is rather simple, and economical too. I use four stakes about six foot long and pound them about one inch into the ground, and as the vines grow, I tie them to the stakes. I use old pantyhose cut up in strips, old sheets work well too. The fabric does not cut into the tender stalk of the plant, and supports it great. You can also use just one big stake to support the plant, I have trouble with this, it is just too difficult to tie the plant to one stake. Although my grandmother used this method, and it seemed to work well for her. Another method is four legged teepees. There are made from seven to eight foot stakes spread two feet apart at the base and bound together a foot down from the top. One plant is set at the base of each stake of the teepee and then tied to the stake as it grows. Pinch out all the side shoots to keep these climbing tomato vines manageable. Neither of these supports will blow over in even the strongest

"El Nino" wind.

These supports also make harvesting the fruits a snap. Fruits on teepees hang in clusters every foot or two up the vine.

For maximum flavor do not water your tomatoes any more than necessary during the time they are ripening. Remember, the taller, indeterminate types that require staking are usually the best tasting tomatoes in the garden. They are well worth the effort. Peace, until next time.

Some vegetables make better bedmates

More and more people are growing vegetables because they know that not only is the taste better when picked fresh from the garden, but home-grown are so much cheaper than shop-bought.

Being able to pick at the peak of tenderness and serve within an hour or two of picking is a revolution for the taste buds.

It's essential to sow when the soil is moist but not wet or waterlogged. It pays to buy top-quality seeds and plants. Sow seeds in drills and never forget the old well-proven saying: Don't sow too early, too deeply or too thickly.

Some Lake County gardeners might say that you shouldn't plant vegetables side by side because you won't get a good yield. Take that—as you would your vegetables—with a pinch of salt.

But one thing is certain: Some vegetables make better bedmates than others, and for what it's worth, here is a list of "compatible bedmates."

Asparagus—basil, parsley, tomatoes.
Beans—marigolds, celery, potatoes.
Beets—carrots, onions, kohlrabi, cauliflower, kale, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, turnips, cabbage.

Carrots—onions and parsley (which repel carrot flies), beets, peas, sage.

Corn—beans, cucumbers, lettuce, soybeans, spinach.

Cucumbers—corn, radishes.

Lettuce—cabbage, onions, radishes.

Nasturtiums—potatoes.

Onions—carrots, lettuce, radishes.

Peas—beans, carrots, corn, potatoes, turnips.

Peppers—carrots, eggplants, peas.

Radishes—carrots, lettuce, spinach.

Strawberries—borage, lettuce, basil, nasturtiums.

Turnips—peas.

Tips for a beautiful lawn

Mowing actually encourages your lawn to grow horizontally and spread into a thick carpet that can choke out weeds. It's most beneficial to observe the one-third rule and mow frequently enough to clip only one-third of the grass blade. Why? Because removing more than one-third of the grass blade can care a shallow root system. A deeper root system is desirable because it allows your lawn to find water and soil nutrients more easily, especially in hot weather.

Mowing with a sharp blade set at a high cutting height is another way to help your lawn develop a deeper root system. Remember it's not how low you cut the grass, but how even you mow it that gives your lawn that smooth carpet-like look and feel. The actual cutting height depends on the variety of grass in your lawn.

If always mowed in the same pattern, grass can develop a lean that results in skipped spots and an uneven cut. It's best to change directions every time you mow and overlap each swath by about 4-inches to ensure a smooth cut. Turn your mower on side-walks and driveways when you can to help prevent scuffing the turf.

Bring home an armload of summer color.

Geraniums are a great way to incorporate those vibrant colors of summer into your home. At Leider's, we have geraniums in firecracker reds, warm apricots, cotton candy pinks, and goosefeather whites. Just bring home these vigorous geraniums that are easy to grow and simple to plant. Add them to your window boxes, container gardens, —even as a colorful centerpiece on your summer table. They even make great impromptu gifts. Stop by Leider's for a wonderful selection of quality plants today!

'Cave man' pool care latest trend for 20th century pool owners

Visit your local swimming pool dealer and the jargon he'll use to describe options for preventing algae and bacterial growth will sound like terminology from an episode of "Star Trek." Simple words like chlorine are giving way to high-tech terminology including ionization, ozonation, safe shocks (there's an oxy moron) and minerals.

Did we say minerals? Minerals as in nature? As in millions of years ago? Like so many innovations these days, the solution to today's problems lie in the past, or should we say the ancient past. You could almost call it a fable...

Act I

Long, long ago there were lakes, river streams and ponds. Pure, clear and clean. Then came man. And man created pools. Artificial bodies of water to refresh and recreate. And the pools were beautiful — in colors brilliant; jade and azure. They came in myriad sizes and shapes. They decorated the landscape and multiplied.

But, after man created pools came his children, his pets, and finally, his neighbor. Yes, the perfect pure pool was no more, because they brought with them an invasion of little critters invisible to the naked eye. These critters were called bacteria. Unlike the man's neighbor, once the bacteria came to the pool, they never left. The pool turned cloudy, and his help mate yelled to him to get off the log couch and bring purity back to their pool. And man said, "My pool is fun no more."

Act II

"Ah, hah!" the inventive man said. "I'll create a chemical that will destroy the bacteria, and then I'll have fun again." So, he did. And for decades he laughed, and splashed, and frolicked with this children, pets and neighbors, because no matter how many tiny intruders invaded his pool, his chemicals would destroy the bacteria.

But lo, he was finding that it was becoming too much work to dispense the chemicals by hand. This was supposed to be fun...

Today's Reality

Anyone who owns a pool will tell you that ownership isn't all fun and games. Algae and bacteria are two dreaded words pool owners don't want to hear.

"Any product that can either eliminate or reduce the two are going to get my attention real fast," states Robert Hardwick, a pool owner living near Sanibel Island in Southwest Florida. Robert uses his pool year round, and while he considers it one of the most enjoyable aspects of a Florida lifestyle, he knows some work goes with it.

"The use of chemicals bothers me a bit," he adds. "I'd really be open to a more natural method of pool sanitation; ideally one that either uses little or no chemicals."

"This has been a growing request among consumers," notes Joe King, president of Minneapolis, Minn.-based King Technologies, Inc., a leading manufacturer of a new pool sanitizer which uses minerals to purify the water. "They are clearly telling us, 'Give us a product that uses fewer chemicals and relies more on nature.'"

King's product, FROG, exposes pool water to a patented formula of mine.

Kitchen can be transformed into mini-greenhouse

To millions of Lake County homeowners, nothing is more relaxing or rewarding than gardening. Whether it's a kitchen full of fresh herbs, a few tomato plants on the back porch or an entire pumpkin patch growing plants offers beautiful (and often delicious) dividends for a very small investment in soil, water, seeds and time.

A garden window lets homeowners enjoy all the benefits of a mini-greenhouse without adding onto their home or hanging plants out an apartment window. Replacing a window in the kitchen, an ideal location for growing indoor plants and herbs, can add sunlight to the home's most popular room in addition to providing a sunnier, larger growing space for plants—a hit with any indoor gardener no matter what the season.

Garden window features a tempered glass top for added safety and less worry about weight from ice and snow.

Fusion-welded "forever corners" eliminate maintenance such as caulking and ensure weathertight construction.

Remember those hand-rigged shelves, boards and nails that indoor gardeners use to squeeze extra growing space out of a kitchen window? The Garden Window already includes a handy and sturdy no-maintenance shelf to double the size of your mini-garden.

Engineers measure the energy efficiency of windows as the "R-factor." The "R" stands for resistance: The higher the R-factor, or resistance, the greater the amount of insulation a window provides. The R-factor rating of a window is very important since it directly affects the cost of heating and cooling your home.

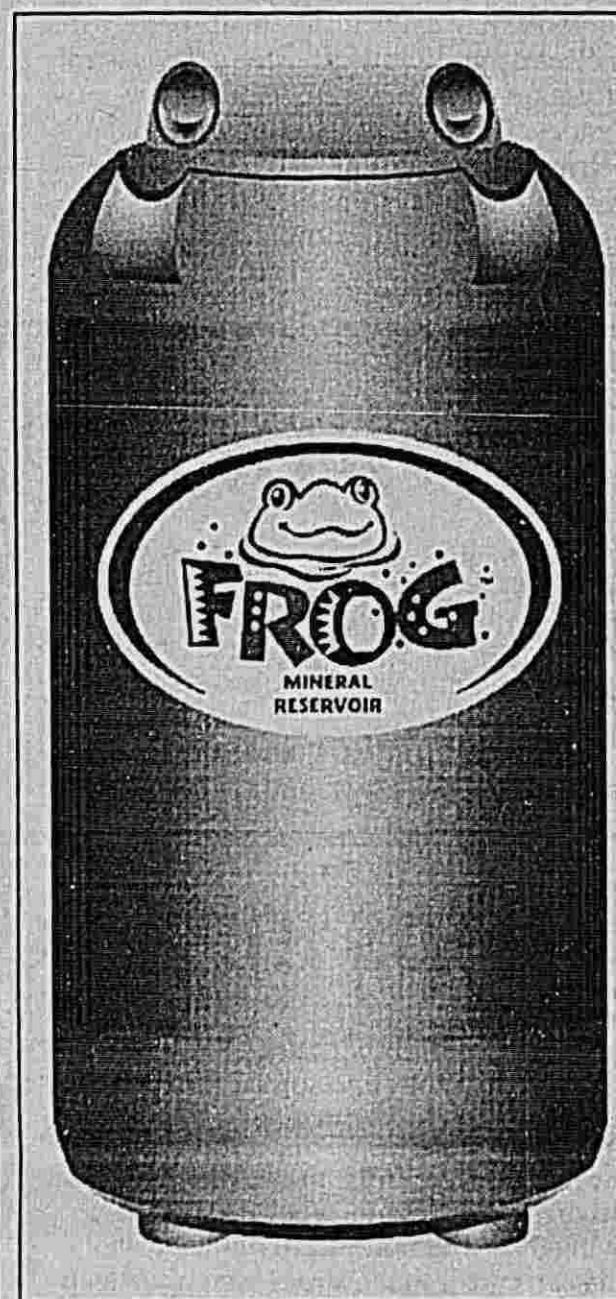

When considering adding a window to any room in the home, many consumers assume a wood frame window will give them the most energy efficiency and the longest-lasting product. R-factor tests show that a four-inch thick wood frame used in wood windows has an R-factor of 5.0. But a window frame made of polyvinylchloride (PVC vinyl) with extra polyurethane insulation offers an R-factor of 13.0—far above that of wood frames. This exceptional R-factor helps today's homeowners maintain a comfortable temperature inside their homes while keeping heating and cooling bills down.

And unlike a wood window, a window made of PVC will never warp expand, contract or rot. It will always maintain its beauty, never require painting and offers superior weather tightness over other windows.

Bringing the warmth and color of nature indoors no matter the season is simple with a garden window installed in your kitchen. Other features include two operating trapezoid shaped casement windows for ventilation and sturdy PVC vinyl frames. In addition, the garden window is also available with HiR+Plus insulated glass and a DuPont Corian® seat to ensure a maintenance-free and beautiful interior.

Energy-efficient insulated glass and ever-new surfaces aren't the only options today's consumers have when it comes to a "window treatment." Beautiful handcut beveled glass is also available in a variety of elegant patterns in the garden window—without losing any of its energy-saving features.

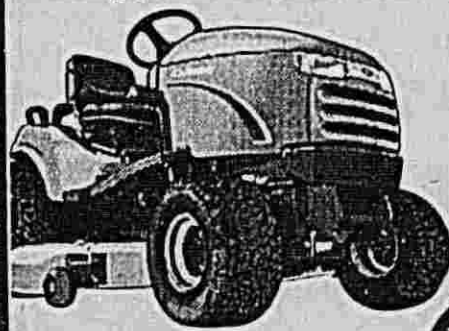

History and nature provide inspiration for modern pool technology, as indicated by the FROG mineral reservoir system which helps keep pools clean with fewer chemicals.

Cutting gardens—beautiful accents from yard to house

If you'd like to turn your landscape into a homescape, try a cutting garden. Cutting gardens may contain just about any plant, tree, shrub or flower, as long as it's suited to grow in your environment. And, the cuttings will brighten your home for the entire growing season.

Cutting gardens are relatively new to the United States, but they're rapidly increasing in popularity. They add natural color and beauty to the landscape while growing outdoors and, once cut and moved indoors, add warmth and personality to any household.

Growing a cutting garden is a unique practice because the garden is grown specifically to be cut and brought indoors for decoration. Once started, it is not difficult to maintain. But, it is important to start out right with healthy seedlings that are suited to your environment, fertile soil, ample sunlight and regular waterings.

Planting the cutting garden

As with any garden, only plants suited to your soil and climate will grow with health and little maintenance. Check with a local extension agent for a list of flowers, shrubs, trees and any other plants that are well-suited to your region. Then, select a variety of plants from this list. If you're limited on garden space, select a few flowering plants with colors that coordinate with the interior of your house. A few colorful favorites that grow around the country are marigolds, zinnias, baby's breath, black-eyed Susans and geraniums.

Once you've selected the plants for your cutting garden, you must select a good planting site and prepare the soil. For flower beds, choose a site that receives at least six to eight hours of sunlight a day. The soil should drain well and be rich in nutrients. To organically add nutrients to the soil, apply three to six inches of peat moss or compost and a balanced organic fertilizer over the soil. Then, till or spade the area to a depth of eight to 12 inches.

Now that the soil is ready, spread a landscape fabric over the bed. Experts recommend one that blocks sunlight and helps the soil retain moisture, such as WeedBlock by Easy Gardener. When the fabric is in place, cut small x's or circles in the fabric, then plant the seedlings directly into the soil. Water the seedlings weekly, about one to one and one-half inches, to ensure healthy growth.

Cutting the cutting garden

Once your plants reach maturity, they can be cut for indoor arrangements. But, before you head out to the garden, gather a pair of gloves, a sharp floral knife or scissors, and a clean bucket half-filled with lukewarm water.

The best time to cut plants and flowers is early morning or early evening. Each stem must be cut at an angle then immediately placed stem-down in the bucket of water. Try to cut flowers with at least 10-inch stems, so that you can trim them as needed for your arrangement. When you've collected all the plants and flowers you want, carry your bucket of cuttings inside and spray them with an antitranspirant spray, such as Plant Saver by Easy Gardener. Spraying freshly-cut plants and flowers with Plant Saver will ensure water retention and reduce stress on plants after they have been cut, helping them stay and look fresher longer. Then, allow the flowers to stand in deep water in a cool place for several hours or overnight.

Before arranging, trim each stem again, this time holding it under water while you cut. Cut it at a sharp angle to allow more surface area for water to enter.

Arranging fresh flowers

Before making your cutting arrangement, thoroughly clean your vase with bleach, then rinse it well. If your vase is large, you may want to place floral foam in the bottom to hold the stems in place.

Begin by filling your vase with room temperature water. The first flowers to use should be the tallest and the primary color in the arrangement. Always use odd numbers of each flower or color to create a strong, visual pattern.

Once the larger flowers are in place, add the secondary flowers of coordinating colors. Finish the arrangement by adding small accents, such as baby's breath, ornamental grasses or evergreen clippings. Then, place your arrangement anywhere in your home where it will receive plenty of fresh air, sunlight and praise from all who see it.

Plant care provides benefits in the later years

A little greenery can enrich the lives of older people, according to the University of Illinois researchers.

"Working with plants promotes physical health, a perception of well-being and an increased capacity to pay attention," said William Sullivan, assistant research professor in the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Sciences.

House plants and gardens allow elderly people to exercise arthritic fingers and joints as well as provide opportunities to be creative and useful. Evidence supports studies indicating reduced blood pressure, less stress and lower instances of depression in older people as a result of cultivating plants.

Plants offer social benefits as well. Older people often grow plants together in their communities which provides a setting for social interaction and companionship.

"Research shows that social ties are established with neighbors through gardens, trees and lawns and those social relationships grow through taking pride in maintaining plants," said Byoung-Suk Kweon, graduate student. "In this way, elderly people feel useful and helpful.

They interact with each other and make new friends."

Kweon said creativity and manual performance increase as a result of working with plants.

"It is not the type of plant being cultivated that really matters," she said, "but the physical act of caring for and nurturing the plant that helps the elderly."

Horticultural therapy researchers say people who care for and tend to the needs of plants rediscover a sprig of usefulness and vitality in their own lives. Horticulture therapy has been used in nursing homes, hospitals, jails and other institutions.

Researchers also feel older individuals find a sense of pride in their communities by sharing in gardening and plant maintenance.

Physical disabilities, such as arthritis and fatigue, often ease with the sense of pride and comfort they felt in raising children, and that eases feelings of usefulness and weariness, said Kweon.

Most importantly, working with plants passes the time with friends and eases the feelings of loneliness.

Peat moss secret is out: Great gardens begin at root level

The secret to beautiful gardens is at root level—in the soil. So don't covet your neighbor's fabulous flowers, stunning shrubs, venerable vegetables and luscious lawns; build the foundation needed for a yard that will rival Eden.

Plant roots require soil that is loamy, neutral, with the capacity for good drainage and full of organic material. Chances are that the plot of earth that's your property doesn't possess all these characteristics.

Do a quick quality check to determine the condition of your soil. Scoop up a handful of dirt and study its texture. If it's thick and lumpy and clings together in a ball, it's heavy clay. Plant roots have a hard time penetrating clay, and they will starve due to lack of air and water.

Luckily, one soil amendment will take over where Mother Nature, or the developers, left off. Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss improves the texture and performance of all soils, both good and bad. It will aerate clay, bind sand, dramatically reduce the leaching of nutrients and hold up to 20 times its weight in water.

A general rule of thumb is to work a two-inch layer into the top six inches of soil. For year-round soil conditioning, add Canadian Peat Moss to the garden in both the spring, before planting, and in the fall, after harvesting.

The pH level of your garden should also be analyzed so necessary adjustments can be made. The pH, or level of alkalinity or acidity, is measured on a scale of 1 to 14. Seven is neutral; numbers above indicate alkaline soil and numbers below show acidic conditions. Soil amendments and fertilizers may affect the acidity or alkalinity of your planting bed. Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss is again beneficial because it has a predictable pH level of 3.4 to 4.8.

A soil test will help determine accurately the pH of your soil, but here are regional clues that can also be of help. Acid soils occur throughout the Northeast and in parts of the country that have high humidity and other conditions that leach out calcium and magnesium.

Ground limestone is the antidote. Alkaline soils are more common in the Southwest where rainfall doesn't rob the soil of alkalizing chemicals. Spread sulfur to increase acidity. Remember lawns, vegetables and most flowers prefer a neutral to slightly acid soil, such as pH 6.0 to 7.0.

Plants require three major nutrients: nitrogen (N), which encourages growth of plant tissues; phosphorus (P), which stimulates cell development, fruiting and disease resistance, and potassium or potash (K), which helps plants form starches and sugars as well as resist disease and drought. Fertilizers are labeled with three-number formulas, such as 5-10-10 or 10-10-10, referring to the percentage of N-P-K within the mix.

An organic product harvested from bogs 7,000 to 12,000 years old, sphagnum peat moss is found in cold, wet climates north of the 45th parallel. Canada, the Russian Federation and Germany are major producers of sphagnum peat moss. Sphagnum moss was one of the first plants to grow on land as the glaciers receded at the end of the Ice Age.

Over the centuries, the perennial sphagnum plants have grown and formed layers. As the layers decompose, they become sphagnum peat moss, an enduring fibrous substance with large cavities that absorb air and water, the way a sponge does.

Harvesting Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss for horticultural use is an ingenious energy-efficient process. First, the top 1/2 inch of the peat bog is raked and left to dry in the sun. Once dry, it is picked up by large vacuum-like machines. Then, it is screened to remove roots and other debris and pressed in bales.

There are other types of peat moss, such as those formed from the remains of sedge and reed grasses, which are found in more temperate climates. These "peats" are more highly decomposed than Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss and, therefore, do not last as long. Because Canadian Peat has a stronger structure than other peat products, it has a greater capacity to provide plants with the proper balance of air and water.

There is an alternative to pure Canadian Peat: compost-enriched Canadian Peat Moss. Vegetable peelings, lawn and garden debris and coffee grounds needn't waste away in the city dump. Mixed in a 50-50 ratio with Canadian Peat Moss, compost makes an excellent nutrient that also improves the texture of the soil.

Peat will deodorize the compost and soak up excess moisture which often collects in composting receptacles. Just add a shovelful or two of garden soil or stream-sterilized manure as well as two cups of limestone and blend the ingredients.

Canadian Peat is not just an excellent soil conditioner; it's also a great value for the dollar. Packed in compressed bales that double in volume once opened, long-lasting Canadian Peat stores and releases nutrients and moisture to roots slowly, thereby cutting down on the frequency plants need to be watered and fertilized.

At a time of increasing concern about environmental issues, it is comforting to know that this soil conditioner is a completely natural resource. A bale of Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss is free of insect life, weed seeds, and harmful salts and chemicals. Make sure the bale contains pure sphagnum peat moss by looking for the words "Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss," the slogan "Healthier Growth, Naturally," and Canada's symbol, the maple leaf.

Safely power up lawn and garden tools this spring

Most people look forward to venturing outside when temperatures are on the rise. When spring hits, spring cleaning enthusiasts break out lawn and garden tools to do their seasonal spruce-up around the house.

The safety experts at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) recommend the following tips to remember when using lawn and garden appliances.

- Before using any appliance or tool, read and follow the manufacturer's use and care instructions that come with the product.
- Always look for the familiar UL Listing Mark before purchasing a power tool, garden appliance or any other electrical product. The UL Listing Mark on a product means that representative samples of that product have been tested to nationally recognized safety standards with regard to fire, electric shock and related safety hazards.
- Before each use, inspect power tools and electric garden appliances for frayed power cords and cracked or broken casings. If the product is damaged, stop using it immediately. Don't attempt to repair it yourself. Return the product back to the retailer or manufacturer or have a qualified repair shop examine the product.

- When using power tools and garden appliances, always wear proper attire. Keep your clothing, hands and feet away from cutting blades at all times. Never wear jewelry when working with tools. Always wear safety glasses.
- Pay attention to warning markings.

Don't allow tools to get wet unless they are labeled "immersible." When using tools or extension cords outside, make sure they are appropriate for outdoor use.

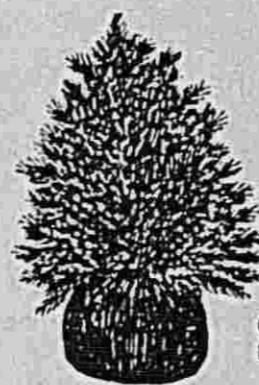

- Never alter a product or remove safety features such as blade guards or electric plug grounding pins.
- Use only properly rated outdoor extension cords with outdoor electrical tools.
- Check the switch on a power tool or garden appliance to make sure it's "OFF" before you plug it in.

Handle food properly in warm weather

Summer brings sun, fun, and a time to be alert to smart food practices. During warm weather it is more important than ever to make sure that foods are handled properly. To keep your food safe from harmful bacteria, remember several key points when buying your groceries: clean, separate, and chill.

Clean

- Clean your refrigerator before you shop.
- Wash your countertops before you bring home your groceries and before you start meal preparation.
- Keep wet towels or small bottles of hand sanitizer available for quick and convenient handwashing.

Separate

- Separate your meat items from other groceries in your cart and when bagged.
- Keep cooked and raw food separated in the refrigerator.

Chill

- Buy your refrigerated and frozen items just before you go to the checkout counter.
- Keep your groceries in your air-conditioned car instead of the trunk.
- After buying groceries, go home immediately.

• If you live more than 30 minutes from your store, bring a cooler for your cold foods.

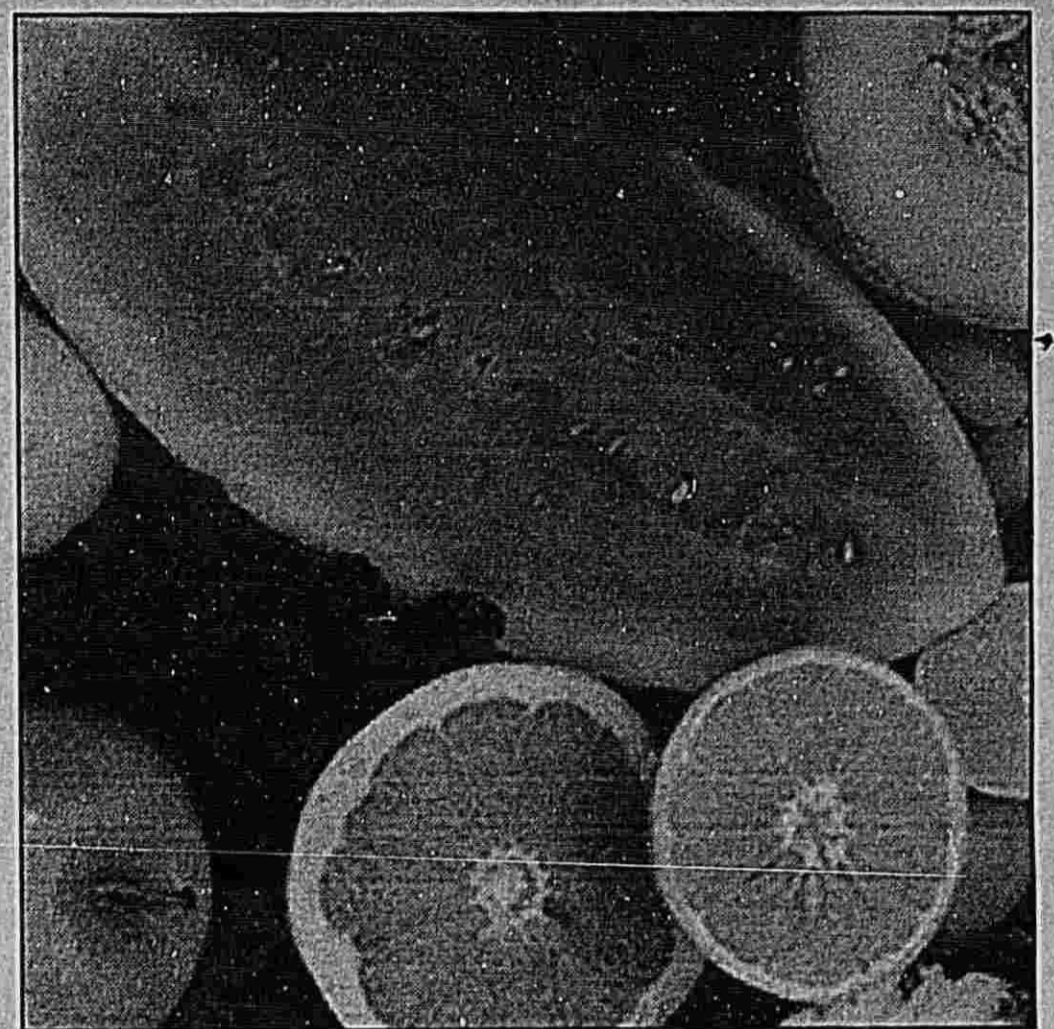

• Unload your perishable foods from the car first.

• Refrigerate items quickly after you get them home to keep bacteria from multiplying.

• Keep your refrigerator temperature at 40 degrees F or below and your freezer at zero degrees F. Check regularly with a thermometer.

"Food safety makes sense," said Nancy Siler, Registered Dietitian and Manager of Consumer Affairs. "Just a little organization and planning can really make a difference and keep your family safe from the harmful side effects of foodborne illness." Dominick's is proud to be a part of a new public education campaign called Fight BAC™, a nationwide food safety initiative to reduce foodborne illness through education about safe food handling practices.

Shoppers can get a free Fight BAC! Keep Food Safe From Bacteria brochure at their local Dominick's or by calling Consumer Affairs at 708-409-3929. Siler adds, "All Dominick's employees pay close attention to how food is handled and we are eager to pass on this important information to our customers."

Dominick's is part of a new public education campaign, "Fight BAC™," a nationwide food safety initiative to reduce foodborne illness through education about safe food handling practices. When buying an abundance of cold items, like the fruit pictured, it might be wise to keep a cooler in the car to keep your cold items cool for the ride home.

ITxM/Lifesource now third largest blood center in the country

The Institute for Transfusion Medicine and Lifesource Blood Services acquire United Blood Services of Chicago

Lifesource Blood Services, Illinois' largest full-service blood center, and its parent organization, The Institute For Transfusion Medicine (ITxM), announced today the acquisition of United Blood Services of Chicago. In combination with ITxM, Lifesource offers a full range of blood banking, testing and clinical laboratory services to patients, donors, hospitals, home health agencies, and other healthcare providers in the Chicago community. This acquisition will enhance the ability of Lifesource, "Chicagoland's United Blood Service," to provide these services throughout the Chicagoland area.

"Lifesource will continue to be the premier provider of blood products and services to our community, while increasing the number of donor centers will broaden our opportunities to serve our donors and customers," said Debra Jenkins, vice president of recruitment and marketing for Lifesource. "Bringing the Chicago operations of United Blood Services into the ITxM/Lifesource family is good news for Chicagoland residents, and will make the delivery of comprehensive services more convenient and accessible."

The Chicago blood center operated by United Blood Services included five donor sites and served 14 Chicago area hospitals. As a result of the acquisition, Lifesource will now serve patients cared for by more than 160 customers, including the majority of the largest trauma centers and teaching hospitals in the greater Chicago metropolitan area.

"Lifesource will now have 21 donor centers in easy to reach locations throughout Chicagoland. In addition to our donor centers, Lifesource will also conduct 2,800 mobile blood drives annually, making it more convenient than ever to donate blood," added Jenkins. ITxM and Lifesource will offer a comprehensive set of transfusion related services including pretransfusion and other red cell serology tests, coagulation and hemostasis testing, molecular based viral testing, and therapeutic apheresis procedures, including peripheral stem cell harvest and storage.

Lifesource and the other not-for-profit organizations that comprise the Institute For Transfusion Medicine system provide a lifeline between those in the community in need of blood products and services, and those who wish to give blood. With strong community support, and by collecting, testing and distributing blood products and services 24 hours-a-day, seven days-a-week, the ITxM family of organizations are committed to providing the safest, most reliable blood supply to the communities served.

Samaritan House: Much more than just a shelter for women

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

"Why is this happening to me?" Jershaun Roberts, 29, asked this question when her life fell apart last September. First, she lost her job. Then, she became homeless and her car was repossessed. With no income, she didn't know how to support her three young children.

She eventually found herself at Catholic Charities, where a case manager suggested she stay at a shelter for women in Waukegan.

"I can't take my kids there," Roberts recalls telling the counselor. She imagined the shelter as a huge disorganized room filled with cots.

But she was wrong. Roberts says that Samaritan House, where she and her children lived for three months, was one of the best things that could happen to her.

"It was like a college dorm," she says. "We had our own bedroom and shared a bathroom with a few other women. There was a big living room and a playroom for the kids."

The shelter not only provided her with a safe place to stay but helped her get back on her feet. "I joined a self-sufficiency program that taught me how to deal with job stress, and how to write resumes and apply for jobs," she said.

Today, Roberts has a full-time job with Peapod, a Skokie-based Internet grocery shopping service. She drives there every day with a car that was donated by a family in Lake Forest. After Catholic Charities helped her apply for Section 8 housing, she moved into a three-bedroom townhouse. Today, her life is much more manageable. "When things fell apart, I was working two jobs trying to support my kids," said Roberts. "One was from 11 p.m. to 7:30 a.m. The other was from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. I just completely burned out."

She would recommend Samaritan House for any single mother. "It's not a place where you just sit around for three months," she says. "I really felt that I was working toward something."

Samaritan House accepts homeless women who are at least 18. Their children can stay as well as long as

to help people

Donald Rogers was a friend to everyone. Since news of the 18-year-old's tragic death Sunday morning in the waters of Long Lake, the door bell and the phone have not stopped ringing at the Rogers' home.

"I didn't know how many friends my son had," said Nancy Rogers. "So many people have told me he was their best friend. I am learning so much about my son from his friends. He was truly a friend to all."

Donald enjoyed helping others. Old and young alike. At the age of 15, he volunteered to work with the elderly at Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center in Lake Villa. Each Monday night, Donald could be found at the home of Mary Soffietti in Fox Lake eating cookies and watching television with the elderly woman.

"They had a standing date," Nancy said. "He enjoyed spending time with people and helping them out."

Next week, Donald was planning a special trip with his great-grandmother to Arizona.

"He had saved up his money and was going to surprise her with tickets to see the symphony and go to the zoo," Nancy said. A few summers ago, he worked and saved money for a trip to see England and Scotland.

"He really loved to travel," Nancy said. A 1997 graduate of Grant High School, he was currently enrolled at the College of Lake County with plans to attend Southern Illinois University for an aviation business degree.

Donald was at the home of friends Saturday night for a gathering of high school classmates, many of who had just returned home after completing their first year of college. According to reports, four of the young men were fishing at 11:45 p.m. Saturday on Long Lake when the canoe flipped over. One of the men swam back to shore for another boat, and pulled two of his friends from the water. Donald could not be found at the time. He was pronounced dead at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville at 2 a.m. Sunday. Rescue workers pulled him from the water of Long Lake at 1 a.m. after an hour-long search.

The other three survivors went back to shore and dialed 911, dispatching the Fox Lake Rescue Dive Team.

"He called me about an hour before he died," Nancy said. "He called just to tell me he loved me. He was always doing things like that. He'd call at work just to tell me he loved me and missed me. He liked to sit and talk. He never outgrew wanting a hug."

Nancy found Donald's senior yearbook Monday, when going through his things.

"The inside cover said 'stand for something,' that is what Donald did," Nancy said. "He was vice president of the senior class and president of the student council. He was wonderful. He shouldn't have gone."

Nancy, who admits she has never been a deeply religious person,

Bells win right to protect orchard during court battle

By SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

If you happened to be driving past Bell's Apple Orchard in Lake Zurich this past weekend, you may have seen a somewhat unusual sight—members of the Bell family spraying the apples to keep them healthy and alive.

That had not occurred for a month, since the family was told to vacate the orchard until a bankruptcy court judge could decide who held right to the property.

A U.S. District Court judge agreed with the Bell's May 22, and made a motion to allow them to spray the apples and protect the orchard.

"We were ecstatic," said Fred Speck, a Chicago attorney who represented the Bell's and their interests before Judge Ellis Reid at the Richard J. Daley Center May 22.

"The judge made a courageous decision and a 60 year-old tradition will continue for the time being," Speck said.

The motion was made for 30 days, expiring June 22, the date for the next court hearing, Speck said.

John L. Bell, III is contesting the vacancy decision, stating the Bell's family and its interests are the rightful owner of the orchard, founded by his grandfather. His mother, Louise Bell, still lives on the property.

Larry Kaplan, of St. Charles, is laying claim to the property, stating he received it through a land transfer with Clyde Engle and his company, Coronet Insurance Co., of Chicago, which went bankrupt in 1995.

Engle and Bell had been partners since 1993.

Al Salvi/Jesse White headline Power Breakfast

The 1997-98 Lake County Power Breakfast season wraps up in style as the two candidates for Illinois Secretary of State take center stage at the June 3 business meeting. Republican Al Salvi and Democrat Jesse White are the featured guests at the final Power Breakfast before the popular Lake County business forum takes a two-month summer hiatus. The candidates are joined on the stage by the political editor for The Daily Herald, Madeleine Doubek and moderator Hal Coxon. According to Lenny Khayat, general manager at Midlane Country Club, this will be the first time the Secretary of State candidates will meet in a formal setting since they won their primary election bids last March. "The Lake County Power Breakfast is very excited to offer the voters of Lake County a first-look at this important campaign," noted Khayat. "Our goal is to provide the community with interesting and informative guests who can address timely issues. The June 3 Power Breakfast delivers on that promise."

Al Salvi began his political career as a downstate Republican candidate for congress in 1986. Since first being elected to the General Assembly in 1992, he won a major upset victory in the March '96 primary for U.S. Senator. Although he lost that hard-fought bid, Mr. Salvi outperformed the national Republican ticket in Illinois by a wide margin. He is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and received his law degree from the University of Illinois. Al and wife Kathy have five children with a sixth on the way. Both Kathy and Al are successful attorneys with offices in Waukegan.

Jesse White currently holds the office of Cook County Recorder of Deeds. He faced several challenges when taking that office in 1992, including a shortage of funds and low employee morale. Since then, Mr. White has increased productivity while trimming the workforce and still handling more documents than ever before. Jesse has also restarted several stalled projects in the Recorder's office.

The Lake County Power Breakfast is open to the public the first Wednesday of each month beginning at 7:30 a.m. at Midlane Country Club. For more information and reservations, contact Midlane Country Club (847) 360-0550.

SAMARITAN: Gives shelter in a troubled world they are 12 or under.

Ellen Belluomini, program director, said there are two types of women who usually stay there. "One is fleeing from domestic violence and is homeless due to a significant other or a spouse," she said. "The other is a person who has had a long history of chemical dependency, has burned her bridges and has nowhere else to go."

The shelter offers a variety of programs to help participants return to self sufficiency, including counseling and group therapy. Case managers help individuals balance their budgets and find housing. An education program helps them obtain their GEDs. A job readiness program prepares them for the work force through training in job etiquette, mock interviews and conflict resolution.

Belluomini said the success stories are countless. Since the shelter opened in 1989, it has assisted 275 families. It helped 49 women find and retain jobs that pay above minimum wage, and helped 103 women earn either bachelor's, associate's or master's degrees.

"It is amazing to see the resiliency of the human spirit," Belluomini said. "Most of these women have a history of emotional or sexual abuse. Despite their problems, they still get themselves together to go back to school or to work."

When Samaritan House was established it was the only shelter for women in the area. Now there is also Haven in Libertyville and Staben House in Waukegan.

RESIGNS: Third park dist. president gone in 18 months

ing to Josephs.

Since she was appointed, the board has faced a great deal of criticism from former commissioners Sharon Desjardins and Ross Goodrich.

The criticism of late has centered around a park convention the board attended in Chicago, at which they were accused of excessive spending.

The board is now searching for a new commissioner to fill the vacancy. Josephs said they are going through letters received last year when searching for persons to fill the vacancy of Paulette and commissioner Russ Chamberlin, who also resigned.

Interested applicants have until June 1 to submit their letters of intent to the park district.

Josephs said in her four years on the board she has seen many members come and go. Her term expires next year, but she is planning on running for reelection.

"I'm looking forward to it, the park district has its challenges," she said of her new position.

Her goals include focusing on the development of Central Park, which she has been working on through development of a master plan. She also wants to get serious about locating a new office building for the district. The district's lease with the village for the current building expires next year.

"I heard the village is interested in tearing it down for parking," she said. "We're hoping to extend the lease for a year to give us a year of planning."

Newly appointed board offices include Ed Soto, vice president; Gayle Cinke, secretary and Dennis Salomonson, treasurer. Commissioner George Weinert was appointed at the representative to the Grays Lake Management Committee. Cinke was appointed as the Illinois Association of Park Districts liaison and Soto and Salomonson have been appointed to the Park-School Committee.

FRIEND: Liked to help others believes God has called Donald home.

"He was my life, as any mother would say. He was an extraordinary child, I found out how extraordinary he was from all the people who have come here. Apparently, he was there for everyone trying to help them. He really had a passion for people," Nancy said. "Donald never judged anyone. He'd always tell me how unfair it was to judge people. 'You have to find the good' he would say. I know he earned his wings. He was wonderful. God gave me 18 years with him and I know he is in a better place now."

Nancy has visited with the friends who were with Donald in the canoe, Monday.

"I told them this is not their fault. It was Donald's time to go. He is now there to help them earn their wings," she said. "I truly believe that."

Rogers was the grandson of Fox Lake Fire Chief Stu Hoehne.

"He was a great kid," Hoehne stated about his grandson. Hoehne, who has been the fire chief for Fox Lake for 18 years, said he now knows what it feels like to be on the other side.

"Now, I know what it feels like," Hoehne stated. "We have received so much support from the people in Fox Lake from this, and a lot of support is from people who have gone through this before. This is a great community when it comes to support," Hoehne stated. "I went to the Memorial Day celebration in town and people just came to me and offered me a lot of support. We have great people here."

"He was a very polite and unassuming gentleman," Grant High School Superintendent, Dr. John Benedetti stated about Rogers. "I worked with him while he was the President of the Student Council and he was a very hard worker."

Nancy said Donald's goal was to travel. "We took his airplane models to the funeral home. His airline books are going to be placed with him and his frequent flyer cards will be in his pockets," she said. "After talking to many of his friends, I decided to just put him in his favorite shirt. He wasn't the type of kid to wear a suit."

The family has donated Donald's organs.

"He would have wanted that," Nancy said.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at United Methodist Church in Ingleside.

Rogers is survived by his parents, Jim and Nancy, his sisters, Doretha and Marilyn, his brother, James, and his grandparents, Stu and Dorothy Hoehne and Annie Ruth Faulk of North Carolina. All people who are giving donations or memorials to the family are asked to contact the church at 395-1259, or by contacting the Fox Lake Fire Department at 587-3312.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Former chief now at Northlake

Grayslake—Former Grayslake Chief of Police Denis Koletsos has shed the hoopla surrounding his departure from Grayslake as chief of police last December.

He is now installed as the Chief of Police in Northlake, a western suburb with an approximate population of 13,500, which swells to around 30,000 during the workday. There he oversees a staff of 52 officers.

Koletsos was sworn in May 18 and began work the following day.

"This is a good opportunity and certainly a challenge. I'm a person that likes challenges. It seemed to be a good fit," he said of the new job.

Koletsos moved with his family to Grayslake from Wood Dale, when he accepted the position here over four years ago. They remain residents here.

He resigned from his Grayslake post in December saying it was time for a change. Following his resignation a great deal of controversy arose with many voicing concerns he was forced out. Neither Koletsos nor the village gave any explanation for his resignation.

Lake Villa safety fair set

Lake Villa—How often can you meet McGruff the crime dog, crawl through a smoky house, and get your bike fixed all at once?

Well you can if you attend the Lake Villa police Community Safety Fair on May 30.

Starting at 10:00 a.m., over 25 agencies will be on hand at the Lake Villa VFW to help Lake Villa's finest give the scoop on safety.

Crawling through Lake Villa Fire Department's smoke house will please the kiddies. The rescue department will do blood pressure checks for seniors and the Illinois State Police will speak to parents on gang prevention and awareness.

Bowling, silent auction event

Mundelein—The Mundelein Women's League and Mundelein Pride, an Illinois Main Street downtown revitalization organization, are holding their Second Annual Wacky Candlelight Bowl and Silent Auction Saturday, May 30, beginning at 7 p.m., at Fairhaven Bowling Alley, 711 E. Hawley St.

The bowling event will benefit a downtown beautification project to be determined by both organizations, while the silent auction will benefit the medical fund of Alex Paris, a six-year-old girl from Wauconda suffering from a rare form of muscle cancer in her right lower jaw.

The evening will feature three wacky bowling games, bowling shoe rental, red pin specials, prizes for winners and buffet dinner. Bowlers are asked to pay $120 per team of six, or $25 per person, while all others are asked to pay $6 pre-paid or $7 at the door. Checks should be made payable to Mundelein Women's League. Only persons ages 18 years and older are permitted to participate. For additional information, call the Mundelein Pride office at 970-9235.

Police investigate elderly scam

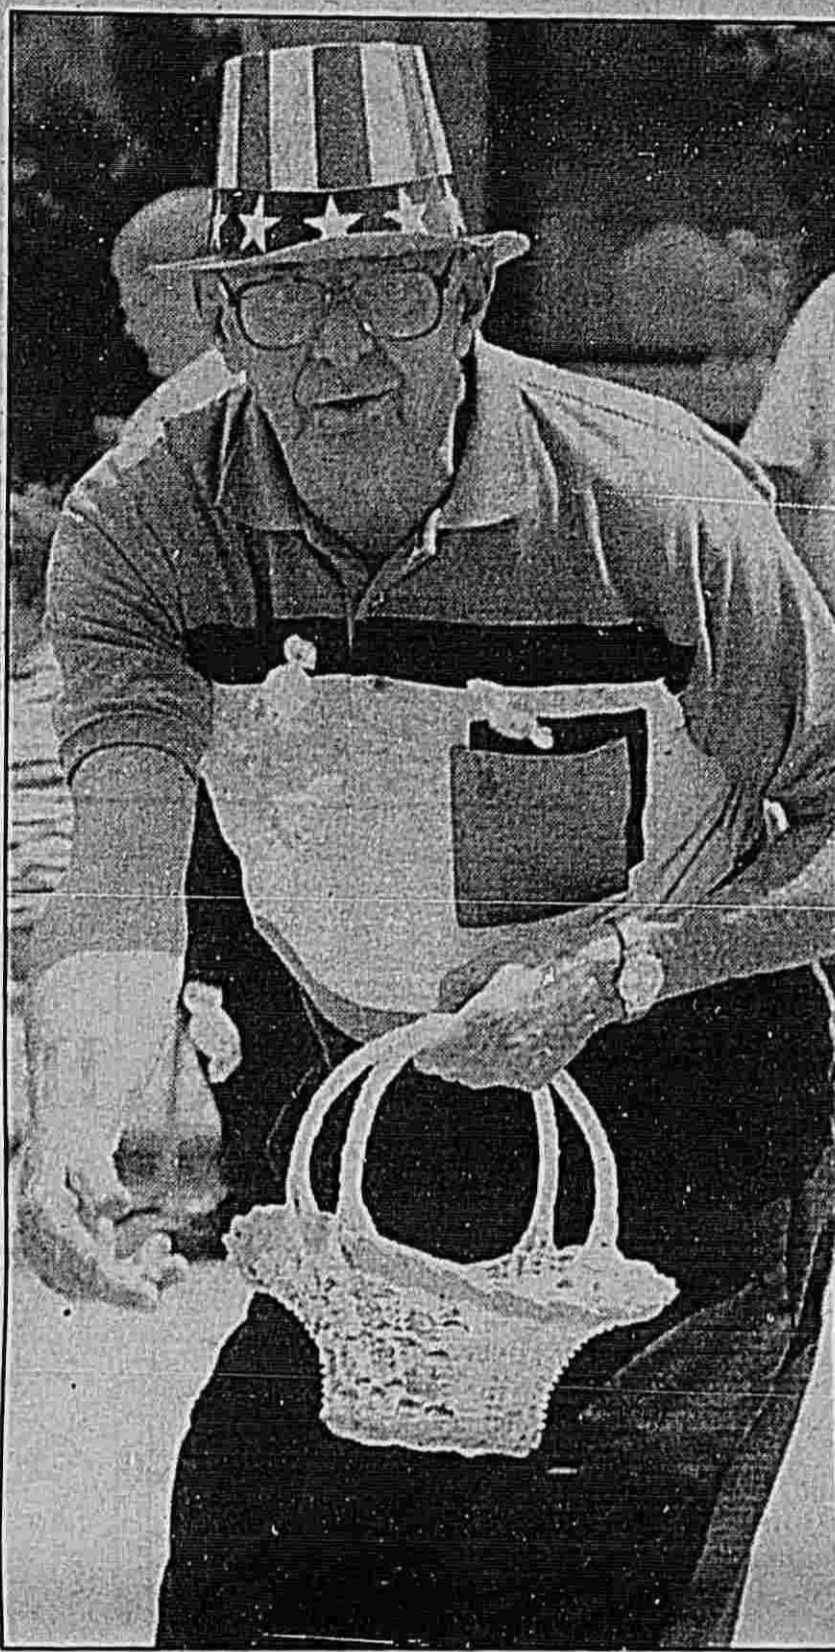

Wauconda—Police are investigating a "seal-coating scam," where an elderly woman was nearly taken for $250 from some scam artists last week.

Police accompanied the woman, 78, to her bank the afternoon of May 18, and watched her put a stop payment on a check she had written only hours before for $250 to three men who showed up at her doorstep and said they wanted to seal-coat her driveway.

This is the second elderly scam reported to Wauconda police this year. The other case involved the theft of $1,400 in cash from an elderly couple in their 80s. In that case, three men showed up at their doorstep claiming to be tree trimmers. Anyone with information about either incident is asked to call the Wauconda Police Department at 526-2421.

District vows to oppose petition

Libertyville—The Libertyville Community High School board of education voted to oppose the petition by the Daybreak Farms subdivision to detach from two Warren township school districts and annex into two Libertyville community school districts.

Forty four residents, more than two-thirds of the registered voters in the subdivision, signed the petition which was presented to the Lake County Regional Office of Education on April 6. It is the third such petition submitted over the last few years by residents in the area.

The petitioners wish to detach from Woodland Elementary School District 50 and Warren Township High School District 121 and annex into Oak Grove School District 68 and LCHS District 128.

LCHS superintendent Dr. Don Gossett told the board all three of the other districts which would be affected by the detachment have passed resolutions in opposition to the move. Gossett recommended the District 128 board do the same.

Chamber honors three students

Lindenhurst—Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce members granted three scholarships to area students at their Tuesday, May 19 meeting.

Receiving the Paul Yurs Memorial Scholarship are Eloise Kron and Stephanie Kane, both of Lake Villa, and John Scully, of Lindenhurst.

Chamber President Robert Ringa said that the scholarship is the major chamber financial contribution to the children of Lake Villa and Lindenhurst. It is awarded annually.

Eloise Kron, a Grayslake High School graduate who lives in Lake Villa, will attend the University of Illinois. She will study environmental communication and education.

Stephanie Kane, a Carmel High School graduate from Lake Villa, will attend the University of Dayton (Ohio). She will major in international business.

John Scully is a Carmel High School graduate who lives in Lindenhurst. McEwan said, "John played soccer for four years and ran track for two."

Scully had a 4.14 grade point average. Kron will graduate 12th in her class of 300 with a 5.525 average. Kane will graduate 46th in her class of 303 and have a grade point average of 3.76.

Schools are out for summer

Fox Lake—In a time when schools take a break in and around America, the schools in the Grant Township Area are not relaxing, but rather pressing for information to try and inform tax payers of their proposed referendums expected to hit in the next couple of years.

As we all know, Big Hollow stands at the front of the issue, with population expected to double in the district, the school faces an overcrowding issue of epic proportions.

Dr. Ron Pazanin, superintendent of Big Hollow does not bypass the question, rather is waiting the outcome of grants from the State of Illinois, before he pops the big R word on voters.

"Originally, we were supposed to receive word on the construction grant by the end of May," Pazanin stated. "However, that was postponed to July, which really tightens our deadline for filing a fall referendum."

Big Hollow is looking into building a new school to combat the overcrowding they expect. The school would house the middle school students, while the two current schools would split the elementary students.

Second ACHS campus site

Antioch—The Antioch Community High School Board of Education has selected a Deep Lake Road site at Grass Lake Road for a second high school campus.

"The board adopted a resolution to acquire and condemn property," said Dennis Hockney, district superintendent.

The decision was made at a regular May 21 school board meeting.

The high school district is authorized to negotiate for the property. It also is authorized to institute condemnation proceedings if the negotiations are not successful.

"The property is located at the northeast corner of the intersection of Grass Lake Road and Deep Lake Road," said Hockney. "That's about 65 acres that the board is negotiating to obtain."

Police work overtime for holiday

Fox Lake—In an effort to keep crime at an all time low, Police Chief Ed Gerretsen and the officers of the Fox Lake Police Department worked overtime this weekend, making sure that everyone had a safe Memorial Day weekend.

According to Gerretsen, the system worked as crime for the holiday weekend was at an all time low.

"We really worked hard to try and keep this weekend safe for everyone in the area," Gerretsen stated about the weekend. "We held a traffic enforcement detail all weekend to keep peace in the area and to stop any violators in the village."

Toddler survives as family dies

Gurnee—A two-year old boy and family pets survived a domestic dispute which turned deadly.

The quiet of the dinner hour was interrupted by gunshots as four people were found dead at 3802 Glen Flora Ave.

Pronounced dead at the scene were Damien LeMere, age 36; Nancy LeMere, age 39; Alexander Lowe, age 14 and Lauren Mank, age 10.

"They all died of gunshot wounds to the facial area," Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson said.

An aunt is taking care of the 2-year-old, whose birthday was May 22.

Finding our soul

So, here we are once again. Another round of shootings and another teenager taken into custody, this time leaving his parents in the murderous wake as well as fellow students in Springfield, Ore. For a complete triumvirate, 15-year-old Kipland Kinkel attacked an officer with a knife he had concealed with a leg strap.

Gee whiz. What's the problem here? Where many have failed before, let's try to figure it out in a few short paragraphs.

The call for gun control is clamoring as loud as it ever has been. But this boy was given weapons by his parents, people who would have probably qualified to purchase weapons anyway. And besides, millions of teens, especially in rural areas, have guns and hunt regularly. No problems. (Sorry, no statistics are readily available on how many teens build and stockpile homemade bombs in their bedrooms.)

On the other hand in states where conceal and carry laws are on the books, crime rates have actually gone down. In England, which has strict anti-handgun laws, typically less than a dozen people a year are killed by those wielding handguns. But, is it possible that Kinkel would have been thwarted had someone the opportunity to gun him down first, gruesome as that may sound?

Don't ignore that word two paragraphs ago. You know the one, 'parents.' Aha! Now we're on to something. How about the parents in Jonesboro, Ark., who cares what their names are now. "I don't know what happened. He's always been a good kid." Then we find out the pesky little offender-turned-murderer already has a record. Who's paying attention here?

However, in his book 'How to Raise the Strong-Willed Child,' well-known child psychologist and Christian broadcaster Dr. James Dobson says that even if parents do everything right, some children will still turn out with problems. Parents can only try to improve what they have to work with from birth. You're not off the hook. Dobson does not imply that parents should give up.

And what about media coverage? In some twisted fashion, aren't these troubled youths looking for 15 minutes of fame. How many postal worker shoot ups follow each other in succession? The national media plays it up even more.

With something as innocuous as baby Jessica falling in a dry well in Texas more than 20 years ago, how many dry well incidents were nationally reported that very summer? More than we've heard of since.

The national media jumps on the bandwagon for stories they often hardly grasp themselves and impressionable citizens then hop on for the ride.

Without a clear answer in this debate, we're hard pressed to find the promised answer. Could the misinterpretation, then obliteration of the separation of church and state be at the center of it? Are we losing our soul? If only there were a moral code, some general guideline to live by. Yes, that's it. That is the missing element on the tip of the tongue, but it eludes us.

We give up. God only know what the answer is.

New second campus solves knotty problems

Now that earth is being moved for construction of a second campus to serve Vernon Hills, officials of Libertyville Community High School District 128 face the daunting task of building and equipping a new school in 15 months to meet their self-imposed deadline of August, 1999.

Imposing as that timetable is, the tightly crafted construction schedule should prove to be less arduous and certainly less painful than the frustrating political process necessary to gain voter approval last November of a $48.5 million referendum for a new school and renovation to the Butler Lake campus. Voters were getting referenda overload when the question on how to deal with more students than space allowed was solved at the ballot box.

Occupancy of the 330,000 square foot building designed for 1,600 students will be phased in. By the third year of operation, there will be two four-year schools. By that time, Libertyville and Vernon Hills residents will have what they wanted all along—separate schools, each with their own identity serving the individual needs of two distinct communities.

The wisdom of two separate high schools shouldn't be lost on neighbors, mainly Grayslake, facing future space problems imposed by a mushrooming enrollment. While multi-school districts experience unique problems, when there are socio-economic differences in a district, the advantage of separate high schools far outweigh the disadvantages. Suburban growth has eroded homogeneity in the Grayslake district that could result in serious problems down the road when the time comes to decide whether a single campus or a second location will best suit the district.

Retiring Libertyville Supt. Donald Gossett points out that the new school remains nameless. Hopefully, responsible parties will not make a big deal out of picking a name. The school is being built for Vernon Hills and properly should be identified as such: Vernon Hills High School.

STATE LEGISLATORS ADDRESS ENVIRONMENTALISTS...

VIEWPOINT

State, national Dems shy away from county

Republicans dodged a bullet when House Speaker Michael Madigan decided not to get involved in the fall Lake County election.

The tip-off was the slating of political unknown Mike Diemler to challenge Antioch Township Supervisor Tim Osmond for the 62nd Dist. State Representative seat being vacated by State Rep. Bob Churchill. Diemler's candidacy was orchestrated by county Democrats.

Madigan chose to ignore that the 62nd Dist., running along the state-line from Zion to the Fox River is ripe for a Democratic take over.

Political observers saw Zion's blue collar and heavy minority population, a strong Dem pocket in Lindenhurst and the hefty senior citizen mix in west Antioch Township as a good base for a moderate Democrat to draw upon.

Without the speaker's support, Diemler will be on his own for campaign funding, which means he'll be hurting for money.

Along the same vein, the Democrats aren't even bothering to put up token opposition to Congressman John Porter, the popular and influential Republican who serves the North Shore 10th Dist., that includes Libertyville and Vernon townships besides communities bordering Lake Michigan.

Have state and national Democrats lost their nerve in Lake County? It would seem so. Democratic U.S. Sens. Carole Moseley-Braun and Dick Durbin won't campaign here. The only time they set foot in the county is to tap wealthy Highland Park residents for campaign funds.

Father knows best

Somewhat sheepishly, Grayslake real estate broker Lou Frank explained why he wasn't in the office the other day. "My other job," he responded brightly. Turns out that the younger Frank generation took to heart dad's admonishments about "the nobility of working with your hands" and the later life benefits of early business training. So the entrepreneurial Frank siblings formed a lawn mowing business and "hired" dad as their first employee. "We did six jobs yesterday," the proud father reported while he rested aching muscles—back at the office.

Even with more than 24 months before campaigning begins, battle lines are pretty well drawn for the 2001 Waukegan mayoral election. Alderman Ray Vukovich, the outspoken young chairman of the finance committee, will be the Republican choice, and city treasurer Dan Drew is said to have a lock on the Democratic nomination. Waukegan uses national party labels for local elections and conducts a primary.

Avoiding MLB bias

In their zeal to get a professional baseball team, minor league proponents in Schaumburg wisely chose to deal with the unaffiliated Northern League, which is not bound by major league baseball rules and regulations. Affiliation status gives existing major league teams veto power over other professional teams coming into their territory.

Thus the Cubs and White Sox won't have a thing to say about pro ball in Schaumburg. Not too many years ago, then County Chairman Bob Depke got enthused about bringing a Class A team to Lake County only to have the proposal blackballed by the Chicago Tribune, owner of the perennial also-rans. The Trib couldn't risk having another Kane County Cougar success story under the nose of the Cubs. Depke had two franchises competing for a Lake County berth. Bob wouldn't have had any trouble building a ballpark in this locality.

Abe's on his way

Students at Allendale School are all abuzz about Abe Lincoln being booked as graduation speaker for commencement Thursday, June 4. No kidding, school officials insist. Abe will be in Lake Villa that night. Now that's one we'll all want to follow.

Happenings at Merit

President Bush slipped into Libertyville unnoticed last week for some golf at the Merit Club while in Chicago filling speaking engagements. There won't be any security, though, surrounding the next celebrity golf event at Merit when University of Illinois luminaries join Illini fans for a June fund raising event for athletic scholarships. Head Football Coach Ron Turner has promised to attend. Lon Kruger and Therese Greutz, the highly successful basketball mentor tandem at Champaign-Urbana, also will be present. Johnny "Red" Kerr is expected to make his third consecutive appearance as official host.

One man's family

Pop's Father's Day gift came early this year in the form of lawn cutting service for the summer. So, my personal fitness program has gone to pot. Guess I'll just have to lug my clubs around the golf course. No more carts.

Rehabers can only do so much

Observe wild birds and animals from a distance. Somehow they, like people, seem to sense when you are watching with your eyes or binoculars. Most animals are secretive and this is as it should be. They don't want to draw attention to their nesting places. That's why the mama is a dull color. The male is colorful so he attracts the female—If you spy where birds are nesting—a predator (raccoon, squirrels, hawks, jays etc.) will find them even faster.

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Laska offers choice words for village Band-Aid projects

Normally taciturn Libertyville mayor Duane Laska had some choice words for another Libertyville elected official, Cook Memorial Library District trustee Cam Hock.

In a somewhat scathing letter to the editor in this week's paper, Laska blasts Hock for calling his village "one Band-Aid after another," at a recent library committee meeting.

Hock was referring to a proposal where the strapped-for-space library reuse the high school's freshman campus buildings for library expansion.

Laska, obviously upset over the comments, demanded a public apology from Hock, for her "insulting comments." After all, many of Libertyville's success stories, the Village Hall, the Civic Center, the Adler Cultural Center and most of if not the entire downtown district, are recycled or reused buildings.

Not being a Libertyville resident, and not understanding what's important to Libertyville folks, however, may hold all the reasons why Hock made such insensitive comments in a public forum. Not to mention the fact that the referendum she vigorously supported was overwhelmingly defeated in March.

Bringing home the goods

the elderly.

"If we want to continue meeting the needs of the senior citizens community, we must make the resources available to those groups and organizations," Link said.

Other funds will benefit: the Lake County Crisis Center, Deerfield Park District for senior service center, Waukegan and North Chicago revitalization efforts, village of Lake Bluff library renovations and several road improvement projects.

Honoring Gary

WGN's Bob Collins will be the Master of Ceremonies at a fundraiser for Republican candidate for Sheriff Gary Del Re at the Country Squire June 10.

The event will be held from 5:30-8 p.m. Tickets are $35.

Powering up

The Lake County Power Breakfast will be hosting Secretary of State candidates Al Salvi and Jesse White in the final breakfast of the season, June 3.

"We thought this would be a great time to have them in and speak to the crowd," said Hal Coxon, moderate of the breakfast. The breakfast is held monthly September to June at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth.

Whatever happened to Andrea Jaeger?

Back in the early 1980s, one of Lake County's favorite and most amazing sports stars was a pretty Stevenson High School student, Andrea Jaeger.

She was a tennis sensation. After winning junior championships she joined the professional circuit at age 14 and became the youngest player ever to be seeded at Wimbledon.

At 15, she was one of four named to America's Wightman Cup Team, along with the great Chris Evert Lloyd, Tracy Austin and Pam Shriver. But in the 1984 French Open, Andrea lunged for a ball and dislocated a shoulder. Struggling to come back she underwent seven surgeries, then while waiting at a stoplight her car was rear-ended. The impact fractured two vertebrae and her tennis career was over.

Andrea has dropped out of public view for some 14 years and, as sports fans like to ask, "Whatever happened to her?"

Something quite special. Her smiling face is on the cover of the June issue of Reader's Digest magazine, and inside is a touching story of how she took the $1.4 million she earned in tennis and began pouring it into a venture she calls Kids' Stuff Foundation.

It includes a camp in Aspen, Colo., where seriously ill children are helped to recapture some of the joy of being young. Next spring, Andrea plans to open a permanent home for her foundation, the Silver Lining Ranch.

The Reader's Digest article says the teen-age tennis pro had lived most of her life in a lonely rush, but during the 1981 U.S. Open in New York she spied a huge toy store and had an idea. After locating a hospital with a ward for kids with cancer, she bought dozens of games, puzzles and stuffed animals. Then she went to the hospital, alone, and passed out her gifts, amazed at the joy that came to sad faces.

From that day on, wherever the tennis tour stopped, Andrea would visit a children's hospital. It was the one thing that was hers alone.

In Chris Evert Lloyd's autobiography, written in 1982, she said, "Although only 16, Andrea already is her own person. She's totally spontaneous. I feel close to her despite our age difference. After she lost to Peanut Louie at a Chicago tournament in 1981, I phoned her."

"I always call you after a big win," I said, "so I felt I should call you after you lost, to show that I don't think of you as a friend just because you're a winner."

"Andrea laughed, but I could tell she was upset. I'm 15, I'm from Chicago and the crowds were against me," she lamented.

Coincidentally, as a sports writer, I was covering that match. I wrote, "About 5,000 fans showed up at the International Amphitheatre expecting to see the new princess of women's tennis, Andrea Jaeger of Lincolnshire, wipe out Mareen 'Peanut' Louie of San Francisco. But the 20-year-old Louie, ranked 34th in the world, played the match of her career and upset the 7th-ranked Jaeger."

And, yes, some fickle fans suddenly began cheering for Louie. When Andrea came into the interview room to face reporters there were tears in her eyes. And there was an uncomfortable silence.

I am famous for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time, or realizing later what I wish I had said. But on this rare occasion, 17 years ago, I got it right.

"We still love you, Andrea," I said, breaking the silence. Everyone, including Andrea, laughed a little, lightened up and got on with the interview.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Don't let foundation name fool you

The Grayslake Park District board continues to work in secret on the Grayslake Community Park District foundation. Do not let the foundation name fool you. Although established by the Park Board with taxpayer's money, this foundation is a private corporation. It is designed to manage taxpayer's money and Park District properties with no public voice whatsoever.

Meetings to discuss the foundation have already been held without public knowledge. Any discussion of this foundation by the Park Board is required by law to be held in the open. The board has not discussed the foundation publicly this year, but somehow, work on it has continued almost to completion. At a Grayslake Park District board meeting on May 20, the vice-president refused to answer questions about the foundation.

Shrouded in secrecy, commissioners are planning a major change in the asset management of the Park District that could yield substantial control to this private foundation. The foundation will have legal authority to receive and manage Park District money and property. The foundation will not have members and will be governed solely by a board of directors. The Park District will not have voting power to select or control the foundation's board of directors and the public will have no voice in appointing directors. It does not matter that most of the foundation's documents will not be open to the public since the directors will not be accountable to the public for anything.

This foundation will provide no service that cannot be accomplished in some other way that is open to public scrutiny and control. Why is it being formed? Why are the commissioners not discussing this topic in the open? A public hearing on the feasibility of this foundation should be held. After all, it is our money and public property. Public control of Park District assets could soon be severely diminished and under the control of individuals more interested in personal gain than public service.

'Drink, boat responsibly'

What's the best way to captain your ship? By remembering to drink responsibly while enjoying recreational boating activities. As boating enthusiasts ourselves, your friends at Rinella Beverage Co., Lake County's Distributor of Anheuser-Busch Beers, wants everyone to remember that boating is a privilege and a responsibility, just as important as driving a car.

So as you prepare for the summer boating season, make sure that every trip on your boat is safe and enjoyable. Here a few things you can do:

- Brush up on boating safety. Stop by your local library or take a boating course (Call Boat/U.S. Foundation at 1 (800) 336-BOAT for information).

- Check your equipment. Make sure you have basic safety equipment on board—such as life jackets for all passengers, fire extinguishers and navigation lights—and that it works. The U.S. Coast Guard and USCG Auxiliary are excellent resources.

- But most importantly, stay in control. If you plan to enjoy beer or other alcohol beverages, remember to choose a "designated skipper" and "know when to say when." Using a designated skipper on the water is becoming as popular as designated drivers on the highways.

Let's all work to make our summer enjoyable by remembering that responsibility is a lifesaver.

COMMENTARY: Allow nature to take its course

Yes, it hurts to see eggs smashed or a mother killed. That is part of nature. Think what it would be like if all the baby birds and animals that were produced each spring lived out their normal life time—It is against the law to incubate (hatch out) eggs or keep wild animals and birds in captivity without a permit.

In a situation where eggs are left unprotected we'll say for an hour or more it is very likely something has happened to the mother. The eggs have cooled down and will not hatch. Explain to your children or parents what has happened and that these things are a part of life. When the family isn't around just remove and bury the eggs otherwise you will attract varmints that will eat them at night and those varmints may come back looking for more the next night.

If you decide the law is rather cruel and you go ahead and incubate eggs which takes about 28 days, are you prepared (if they hatch) to care for them? It takes 6 to 8 weeks before waterfowl are ready to go off on their own—No one has to teach a duck, goose, or swan how to swim, BUT a mother keeps her babies warm when not in the water, she shows them where to get the food THEY EAT, she protects them as much as possible from turtles or large fish in the water and land animals when out of the water.

You can't treat a wild creature like a pet or plaything either. Rehabers handle wildlife as little as possible. Babies are somewhat fragile when young—If a clutch of say six or more ducklings stay together they could survive on their own if they are near water.

Baby birds often fall out of nests. If you can put one back in the nest—do so. If not, put it under or near the tree where it fell from and watch for awhile. See if the mom comes to get it. If she doesn't appear, retrieve the bird. Put it in a small box or carrier and cover with a light weight cloth until you can get help—Call a wildlife group and ask them to direct you to a rehabilitator (a person who is permitted by USFW and DNR).

Rehabers have a deep love for wildlife and learn at their own EXPENSE and time how to care for wildlife—Because most rehabers have paying jobs (to make a living), they must ask you to bring the animal or bird to them.

There are not enough rehabers in northern Lake County to handle all the animals or birds driven from their homes by excessive development.

Society is going to have to come to some decision about how best man and animal can live in this world together.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Are you serving customers or satisfying them?

According to market research data, businesses lose as much as 30 percent of their potential revenue due to poor customer service. If you're like most, you could use a 30 percent increase in sales.

Many small-business owners are quick to boast about their customer service. However, if you talk to their customers you may get a different story. Some customers don't rate the level of service nearly as high as the business owners do.

Can you define the difference between customer service and customer satisfaction? If you have to think very long, you may need to read the rest of this column.

Served or Satisfied?

Charles often buys breakfast at a fast-food restaurant. Last week, he visited one store three times. On Monday, he waited 11 minutes for his order. On Tuesday the fast crew was at work and he was out in three minutes flat. Unfortunately, when he went to eat his breakfast, what he had was not what he'd ordered. On Wednesday it took nine minutes to get his order. He had to ask for napkins and a straw and then wait another minute while the cashier went to find more one dollar bills. Was Charles served or satisfied?

Mary's car was hard to start. She took it to a neighborhood auto mechanic who promised to do a complete tune-up by 5 p.m. When she picked the car up, it started quickly. On the way home the engine began to make a strange noise. Mary's husband found that one of the sparkplugs had loosened and blown out of his hole. He replaced it and tightened the others. The following morning the car started quickly and ran well. Was Mary served or satisfied?

Dave hired a contractor to paint his house. The contractor had the highest bid, but justified his price by giving a one-year guarantee and pointing out that the high-quality paint he should use should last for 10 years or more. Fifteen months later, Dave noticed peeling paint. Was Dave served or satisfied?

Karolyn needed new glasses. After the eye exam, an office assistant helped her select new frames. Karolyn tried on several frames and one of the least expensive felt quite comfortable. When Karolyn tried to select these, the assistant insisted that she try on several of the more expensive designs. The assistant stressed how much better the more expensive frames looked. Karolyn really couldn't tell much difference, but the assistant was adamant, so she finally bought the higher priced frames. Was Karolyn served or satisfied?

Yoga business catching on in Lake County

Something is catching on in Lake County. It's ancient, with a modern application. It's Yoga. Although men and women have been practicing Yoga for centuries, the increase in interest points to a need for relaxation. Stressful jobs, responsibilities at home and in the workplace, staggering schedules of activities with children and grandchildren, congested traffic and financial obligations are some of the factors that produce a desire to find time to quiet down, to stretch out kinks and knots, and to re-connect the body and mind.

Hatha Yoga is the most popular of the many forms of Yoga. It focuses primarily on body and breathing exercises. The movements (postures called asanas) are usually done slowly.

One of the purposes is to achieve control over the skeletal muscles that determine one's posture. The lower part of the body is strengthened in order to be the foundation for the upper portion of the body. For example, there are postures to strengthen the lower back, firm stomach muscles and increase strength in the arms.

Pranayama is the practice of using breath to work with energy. Increasing oxygen into the cells has taken credit for fat reduction, gaining control over diabetes, and even "pushing out" cancer cells. At the very least, breathing properly can help you relax and reduce stress. Releasing toxins, relaxing the jaw, and focusing on abdominal breathing comes easier with instruction and practice.

On any given day or evening throughout the Lake County area, you can see people of all ages going to classes. They'll be carrying a mat, and will be wearing comfortable clothing. One of the joys of yoga classes is that they are non-competitive, so every level of student is welcomed. A good teacher will encourage you to "listen to your body," and to do just what you can do without having any discomfort. What amazes most students is that it doesn't take too long before the progress is evident.

Postures (over 180,000!) can aid in chronic conditions such as fibromyalgia and arthritis. Strengthening muscles and gentle stretching of ligaments and tendons are part of the low impact, high benefits of Yoga techniques. Flexibility, toning, conditioning and balance come along with the postures as residual effects. Each session ends in a 15-minute meditation.

Marlene Brown is one of the local instructors. At present, she is teaching six classes in the areas of Mundelein, Libertyville, Grayslake and Antioch. The ongoing classes are open to everyone. Brown is planning Yoga for Children during the summer vacation time. "It's a perfect opportunity to help children appreciate their bodies and also to learn how valuable it is to both focus and relax."

For more information on classes, call Brown at 587-7909.

Tokyo Bowl, Vernon Hills, offers healthy fast food

Healthy fast food? That's what you'll find at the new Tokyo Bowl restaurant in Vernon Hills. The idea of serving fast food in an immaculate restaurant isn't new. But when you add to the equation that this food is actually healthy, delicious, fresh and reasonably priced, Tokyo Bowl really stands out from the rest!

Each dish is prepared fresh when ordered with exotic spices and ever-so-subtle homemade sauces. Because owner Sonnia Bach wants her customers to live long, healthy lives, she has perfected the art of Japanese-style cooking without using unhealthy oils and fats. Most meats and vegetables are stir-fried instead of deep fried, and delicately seasoned with spices. This technique keeps fat and sodium levels low. Most drinks come with free refills. Tokyo Bowl is locally owned and open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Survey: Strong demand, low supply for skilled workers

The Management Association of Illinois' Annual Survey Covers 75,000 Area Employees

While the Chicago-area manufacturing sector's 1998 average projected rate of pay increases remains stable at 3.6 percent, area employers expect to provide some workers with increases of two to six times the average increase due to strong demand and low supply for people with particular skills. (See attached table.)

Positions receiving the highest increases are identified in the 1998 Wages Survey, and annual report covering 375 production, maintenance and service positions that is published by The Management Association of Illinois, a Broadview-based not-for-profit association of employers. The report covers 360 Chicago-area organization and 75,000 employees.

According to The Management Association's Director of Compensation Services, John Williams, "The supply of workers in traditional manufacturing positions has been dwindling for several years now, but orders are up in this strong economy and employers are hard pressed to find and keep workers to meet the demand."

As expected in a tight labor market, the above-average pay increases occur because of the gap between the supply of skilled workers and employers' demand — but there are varying reasons for the gap.

For traditional manufacturing positions such as tool-and-die maker, three factors are contributing to a smaller labor pool. The skill level employers require increases as technology advances, manufacturing positions are less attractive options for people seeking higher education, and fewer schools offer skilled training because of program and equipment costs.

In addition to above-market pay increases, employers are beginning to offer alternative work schedules, benefits that reward tenure, and more family friendly work environments.

"Retaining qualified employees is more critical because of the cost and difficulty involved in filling positions. Beyond these above-average pay increases, employers need to provide better benefits and working conditions to keep employees in skilled positions," Williams noted.

The Management Association of Illinois is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to assisting 800-member employers in the areas of human resources, compensation, labor/employee relations, organization development and training. The Management Association is celebrating its 100th Anniversary this year.

In addition to its Human Resources Hotline, "Resources" newsletter, Briefing Meetings, and Human Resources Roundtables, member organizations have access to professional services for compensation administration, affirmative action planning, employment-related legal matters, collective bargaining, and training in leadership, interpersonal communication and team development. The Management Association of Illinois is located at 2809 S. 25th Avenue, Broadview, IL 60153. The phone number is 708/344-6400; fax is 708/344-6989.

'Cinco de Mayo' celebrated at Waukegan Savings & Loan

In Waukegan on May 19, 1998, the Tenth Street Branch of Waukegan Savings and Loan SB was decked out in red, white and green earlier this month as the customers, friends and neighbors of the bank joined to celebrate the Mexican holiday of Cinco de Mayo. The festivities included refreshments, giveaways and prizes, including a grand prize of a $500.00 U.S. Savings Bond. The event was broadcast live on WTAQ-AM radio as the historic Waukegan thrift announced their new Saturday morning hours at Tenth Street.

"Waukegan Savings and Loan continually strives to better serve our customers," according to Bank President Theodore (Ted) Stanulis. "That commitment includes finding new ways to make it easier to do business with the bank. The expanded Saturday hours are a good example because they were specifically designed to meet the needs of our Tenth Street customers."

"Celebrating Cinco de Mayo was a great way to announce the new hours to the neighborhood," noted Gloria Garza, Branch Manager at Tenth Street and coordinator for the event. "Everyone in attendance seemed to have a great time. The kids loved the balloons and free popcorn and we had lots of great prizes for those who registered during the week leading up to the celebration."

The winner of the $500.00 savings bond was Carmelo Atempa. He was joined in the "winner's circle" by Rene Villagrana, who won a free cellular telephone from Pace Communications and Cellular One. Four other winners received $25.00 gift certificates from Gonzalez' Supermarket.

For more information, contact Ted Stanulis or Gloria Garza at (847) 623-6400. Waukegan Savings and Loan SB has two locations, 1324 Golf Road and 900 Tenth Street, and has served the northeastern Illinois area since 1924.

Lake Online! introduces Chain-O-Lakes info center

Lake Online! Lake County's hot spot on the WWW is celebrating its two year anniversary on the Internet.

"We can't believe this site has been LIVE for two years now; time sure flies when you're having fun," stated Judith Kallos, owner of Lake Online & Internet Studio, (located in downtown Antioch) and Webmaster for the popular Lake County Web Site which received in excess of 1,000,000 hits in 1997.

In celebration of this anniversary, Lake Online! has introduced two new comprehensive features at the Web Site that are both already generating quite a big of traffic just based on word of mouth recommendations. The Chain-O-Lakes Info Center includes maps of the entire Chain with information on access points, activities, regulations and boating fees. This site also includes helpful boating, fishing, and hunting resources. "We receive e-mail on a daily basis requesting this type of information—you don't have to ask us twice! If Lake County residents are looking for information, we have made it our mission to provide it," continued Kallos. The additional new popular feature is Lake Online's Guide to the Lake County Forest Preserves listing all the details for each location including the hiking and biking trail maps.

If e-mail activity is any indication, the sites are both a success with comments from visitors ranging from "thank goodness someone finally gave us a quality resource on the Chain," to "you have created a top of the line site—please keep it updated." Visitors are encouraged to assist with any new and updated information. Visitor participation and contributions are what have assisted in making Lake Online! literally the most popular Lake County Web site. This is evidenced by the site being featured in Lycos, one of the most popular World Wide Web Search Engines, City Guide for Lake County.

TAYLOR: Served or satisfied?

earrings—and Sonny. Was Sonny served or satisfied?

Ella headed through the checkout line at her favorite grocery store. "Please put the eggs and strawberries in a separate sack," she requested. When she unpacked the groceries at home, she found the eggs and strawberries under three cans of peas and two cans of corn. Was Ella served or satisfied?

I'm amazed at how many business owners spend thousands of dollars to attract customers to their businesses, then let them slip right through their fingers. You'll never keep a customer just by serving them. You must exceed their expectations. It's nice to delight them, WOW them and amaze them. But, most of all, you must satisfy them.

How To Survive
The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

I am a recent college graduate who was recruited by a well established corporation in early April. The corporation has invited me out for some intense interviewing process. I will be flying out to meet with these people just outside the Denver area in mid May. I feel comfortable about meeting with the people I have spoken to over the past month. My concern is that the owner of the company is picking me up from the airport and I have not previously spoke to the man. I am afraid of being at a loss for what to say while in the car for 40 minutes and definitely concerned of having a lull in the conversation. Can you give me some tips on what topics to hit on in the case of this happening? Thank you. G.A. -Lake Forest

Dear G.A.:

Good question and asked more often than you think. You can never go wrong by starting out the car ride by asking questions such as...Have you always lived in the Denver area?...Has your corporation always resided in the Denver area? If you have been to Denver before, no matter how long ago, it is always safe to say things such as...I had forgotten how beautiful the mountains are. Chances are, the individual will most likely enjoy talking about himself and his corporation, so you can never go wrong with lead-in statements such as I have offered. Let the conversation take its own path. Forty minutes will go by quick. Just remember that before words comes out of your mouth, be sure they are what you want the person or people to hear. Good Luck!

Dear Search:

I have been working with an employment agency for the past 3 months. The counselor that I am working with seems to be sending me out on too many interviews that I am not qualified for. I have said on many occasions that I don't feel that job is right for me or that I am not qualified to do this, they continually send me out anyway, saying things like...You won't know unless you try. Quite often the person interviewing me will stop in the middle of an interview and say something like...I don't understand the service sending you here for this position. Do I have the right to say that I do not feel this position is right for me? I am afraid that if I say that, the service will stop sending me to interviews. I am getting a bit frustrated by always being there for interviews that apparently are not landing me anything but wasted time. What do you suggest? T.B.-Gurnee

Dear T.B.:

I will guess that you are registered with only one employment service. While this may have sufficed for the short term, it appears as though you have had an insufficient 3 month search. Cut your losses now! Register with a reputable service and continue to search on your own as well. You absolutely have the right to turn down any interview you wish not to attend, but keep in mind, that a good employment counselor knows all about the company and position for which they send you out. Do not make a decision not to go until you are sure that you have heard it all.

ELF
(406-42LP60)

The Elf is true to its name. It is diminutive (1,113 square feet), carefully laid out, yet spirited. The two-car garage is located on the end of the Elf. The stairs lead up into the kitchen area, making the unloading of groceries and supplies easy and convenient.

The main entry opens directly into the vaulted family/dining room. It is very spacious and gives the feeling of a great room. There are sliding doors in the dining area that open onto a patio area in the back yard. The family room has two windows that allow the sunlight to brighten up this area.

The master suite has a large window facing the back yard. The walk-in closet is enormous and can be shut off from the main suite with a pocket door. The master bath has a shower, one sink, and a linen closet for towels and sheets.

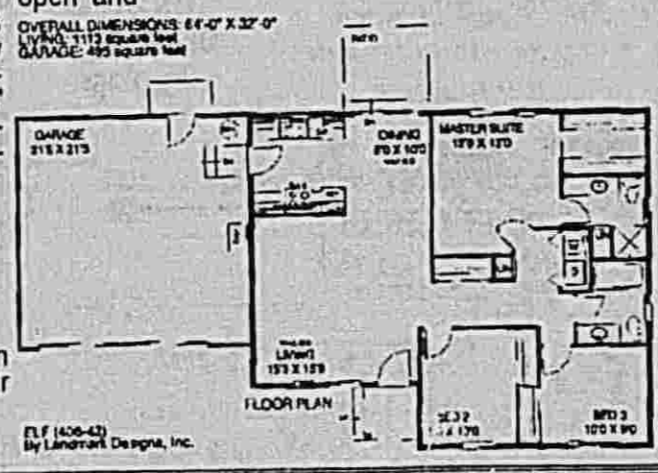

The main bathroom is located between the master suite and the two other bedrooms. It contains a tub and single sink. The washer and dryer are also convenient to all the bedrooms. There is a linen closet opposite the utility closet.

The two bedrooms contain large wall closets and each has a window facing the front of the home. While the two bedrooms are on the same side as the master suite, they do not invade its privacy. Yet, if this is a home with young children, they are close enough to hear a cry or a call.

The halls in this home are at a minimum, which allows more living space. It also allows the home to appear open and spacious. The Elf, with 1,113 square feet, is ideal for a new homeowner. It has the traditional look of our parents' homes, and yet the expansiveness of modern open living space.

For a study kit of the Elf (406-42LP60) send $14.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a Dream Home plan book featuring our most popular home plans, send $7.95 or call 1-800-562-1151.

The halls in this home are at a minimum, which allows more living space. It also allows the home to appear open and spacious. The Elf, with 1,113 square feet, is ideal for a new homeowner. It has the traditional look of our parents' homes, and yet the expansiveness of modern open living space.

For a study kit of the Elf (406-42LP60) send $14.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a Dream Home plan book featuring our most popular home plans, send $7.95 or call 1-800-562-1151.

ELF (406-42) By Landmark Designs, Inc.

LANDMARK DESIGNS

The Elf is true to its name. It is diminutive (1,113 square feet), carefully laid out, yet spirited. The two-car garage is located on the end of the Elf. The stairs lead up into the kitchen area, making the unloading of groceries and supplies easy and convenient.

The main entry opens directly into the vaulted family/dining room. It is very spacious and gives the feeling of a great room. There are sliding doors in the dining area that open onto a patio area in the back yard. The family room has two windows that allow the sunlight to brighten up this area.

The master suite has a large window facing the back yard. The walk-in closet is enormous and can be shut off from the main suite with a pocket door. The master bath has a shower, one sink, and a linen closet for towels and sheets.

The main bathroom is located between the master suite and the two other bedrooms. It contains a tub and single sink. The washer and dryer are also convenient to all the bedrooms. There is a linen closet opposite the utility closet.

The two bedrooms contain large wall closets and each has a window facing the front of the home. While the two bedrooms are on the same side as the master suite, they do not invade its privacy. Yet, if this is a home with young children, they are close enough to hear a cry or a call.
